FINNS DIG IN ON NEW DEFENSES

Republicans Pick June 24 as Convention Date

SELECT CITY FOR PARLEY AT SESSION TODAY

National Committee's Action Booms Chicago as Choice for Convention Site.

CHALLENGES NEW DEAL

Hamilton Asks Dems to Name Roosevelt for 'Showdown' Next November.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON — The Republican national committee today chose June 24 as the date for the 1940 GOP convention after cheering a challenge to the Democrats to nominate President Roosevelt for a third term for a "showdown on the New Deal" next November.

The action immediately boomed the chances of Chicago to become the convention city, its only rival, Philadelphia, having been previously accorded serious consideration on the basis of a 4th of July date dedicated to a reaffirmation of the fundamental principles on which this nation was founded.

Chicago won the Democratic convention two weeks ago at a session of the Democratic national committee which chose a convention city, but delayed fixing a date pending the GOP action today. Indications are that James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, will set the date for about July 8, now that the Republicans have acted.

Although Philadelphia was by no means out of the running for the GOP convention, members of the Republican national committee favoring the Quaker City had premised their arguments on a patriotic motif centered around Independence day in the famed "Cradle of Independence."

Point to Farm Vote.

Chicago backers have wooed committeemen with the convention that their city is more centrally located and that a convention there would create a greater impression on the farm vote which both political parties concede they must have to win.

Ankenbrand Being Considered for N. Y. State Post

Dr. W. W. Ankenbrand, former superintendent of schools in Mansfield, is being considered for the post of commissioner of education of New York state, it was learned here today.

Dr. Ankenbrand is now superintendent of schools in Yonkers, N. Y., a post he has held for the past three years, and to which he went from Rockford, Ill. He left Mansfield in 1935, after serving two years as superintendent.

Dispatches from New York indicated that Dr. Frank P. Graves, present state education commissioner is preparing to retire, and that the New York state board of regents, which holds the power to make the appointment, is considering Dr. Ankenbrand among other candidates.

The post of commissioner of education in New York is similar to that of state director of education in Ohio.

The Yonkers Times, in a lengthy editorial, strongly advocated Dr. Ankenbrand for the post, citing his record of achievement in Yonkers.

Yule Business, January Cold Make Barometers of Business Go Up and Down

December Christmas business and the January cold wave were responsible for marked changes in four of Mansfield's business classifications last month, the Chamber of Commerce monthly business review revealed today.

Without the benefit of Christmas holidays which boosted the December figures, postal receipts dropped 30 per cent and sales tax receipts fell off 39 per cent in January business.

On the other hand, the extremely cold weather which put a crimp in driving, boosted bus fares for January 17 per cent, the largest gain in two years, and hiked the relief load in the county 28 per cent.

Postal receipts in January were $28,463, or more than $12,000 below the record December mailing receipts. Sales tax receipts skidded from $61,774 in December to $37,701 last month. They were up 19 per cent over January, 1939, however.

The Mansfield Rapid Transit company's figures showed that there was nearly 30,000 more bus riders during January than in December, reflecting the severe cold weather that resulted in automobiles being kept in garages during the month.

January bus fares totaled 203,218 as compared with 173,624 the previous month.

The county's relief load, hiked by increased demands for food and clothing and fuel last month increased 28 per cent. There were 533 families on the relief rolls on Feb. 1 as compared with 415 at the same time a month ago.

Building valuations continued at the breakneck pace it set last year to show a gain of 195 per cent last month. Valuations totaled $85,275 as against $34,175 in December.

Bank clearings showed slightly less than a one per cent gain, increasing from $7,800,000 in December to $7,900,000 last month.

Automobile sales also showed a slight increase, netting nearly a 4 per cent gain and car loading jumped eight per cent.

Employment dropped 276 persons, a total of 12,483 on industrial and mercantile payrolls at the end of January as compared with 12,759 at the end of the previous month.

Trusty Employed at Home of O.S.R. Chaplain Escapes

A trusty who worked in the residence of the chaplain took "French leave" of the Ohio State reformatory last evening and today was the object of a police search throughout the state.

The fugitive, Philip Hudson, 20, of Dayton, who was to have been paroled Jan. 15, 1941, left the residence of Chaplain M. W. Wappner outside the prison walls shortly after 7 p. m. to empty garbage and failed to return.

Rev. Wappenr said that when the trusty did not come back in a few minutes, he checked the guard room and found that he had also failed to report to his night quarters.

A posse of guards was summoned and searched the reformatory grounds for several hours without success.

Hudson had been committed to the reformatory Jan. 18, 1938, and was serving concurrently two robbery sentences of 10 and 25 years each. He was granted the parole by the Ohio Parole and Pardon commission in December.

He was the fourth Democrat to enter the May primary for that nomination. Others are former Secretary of State William J. Kennedy, former Atty. Gen. Herbert S. Duffy, and James F. Flynn of Sandusky.

Mosier served in Congress in 1937-38 and was defeated in a bid for re-election. He was lieutenant governor in 1935-36 and served as state senator in 1933 and 1934.

MASSILLON — (INS) — Stricken by a heart attack while driving his automobile, Arthur Crofut, 58, of nearby Crystal Springs, was dead today.

As Crofut was stricken, Mrs. Cecelia Kay, 48, a housekeeper, who was riding with him, grasped the wheel of the car and guided it into a ditch, avoiding a serious crash.

In an almost identical case at Alliance, Claude S. Wilde, 53-year-old Pennsylvania railroad conductor, suffered a heart attack while driving and Harry A. Moughey, a companion, brought the car to a stop at the curb Ornella, 31, of nearby Harrison, is held in jail today in default of $3,000 bond following seizure of a 400-gallon still and 3,740 gallons of whisky mash by federal agents at Ornella's farm. Agents said it was the largest quantity of illegal liquor confiscated here in five years.

TAX CASE UP IN SUPREME COURT

Attorneys Argue Motion to Set Aside Restraining Order on Black Assessment.

The Ohio supreme court was to determine today whether County Auditor Norman L. Wolfe shall assess certain personal taxes alleged due from the estate of the late Frank B. Black of Mansfield or a restraining order against the assessment shall be made permanent.

The hearing was on a motion filed by counsel for Michael Hallabrin, Mansfield taxpayer, to set aside a restraining order granted by the supreme court six weeks ago to halt the assessment.

Atty. William M. Weldon, representing the Black estate, Prosecuting Attorney G. W. Marriott, counsel for Auditor Wolfe, and Atty. Joseph A. Bayer, one of the lawyers representing Hallabrin, were in Columbus to present their evidence to the high court.

If the court grants Hallabrin's motion to set aside the order, it will be left to the county auditor to determine how much tax, if any, is due from the estate.

In his suit filed more than a year ago, Hallabrin contended that a state law that later was declared unconstitutional exempted the late Mr. Black from the payment of certain taxes on his personal property from 1926 to 1932.

The First district appeals court last fall issued a mandamus requiring the auditor to check the Black holdings for the six-year period and to make assessments if any were found due.

Attorneys for the Black estate obtained the restraining order halting the assessment six weeks ago.

M'GREGOR SPENDS $1,077

COLUMBUS —(AP)— J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette reported to the secretary of state today that he spent $1,077 in his successful campaign for the Republican nomination for congress in the 17th district.

CHARGES 1,000 STATE WORKERS BACK M'GREGOR

Ashbrook Enters Home County of Opponent in Campaign for Congress Seat.

HITS AT BRICKER, TOO

McGregor and Governor Speak in Newark Tonight at Battle Warms Up.

Carrying his campaign for 17th district congressmen into the home county of his Republican opponent, Byron B. Ashbrook, Johnstown Democratic nominee in Coshocton today charged that "more than 1,000 state employes" were working for J. Harry McGregor of West Lafayette, Coshocton county, whom Gov. John W. Bricker will aid tonight by addressing a rally in Newark.

"The governor and the Republican state boss are doing everything in their power to make the people of this district take their hand-picked candidate," Ashbrook declared. "More than a thousand state employes are working for him now, and the governor himself is coming into the 17th district to tell the people here to send his favorite errand-boy to congress."

Bricker and McGregor are both scheduled to speak in Newark tonight—the home county of Ashbrook. Bricker has also planned to appear on the platform with McGregor in Coshocton Feb. 21.

Terming the governor's call for the special election Feb. 27 "just another typical Republican jobgrab that will cost the people of my opponents home county about $10,000," Ashbrook declared that the taxpayers of the district objected to Bricker paying off his political debts with their money.

Ashbrook is scheduled to appear before a Democratic meeting at the courthouse tomorrow afternoon, arranged by Richland county party leaders.

He was scheduled to appear here Wednesday night before the Mansfield league of Women Voters, but cancelled his appearance and instead Victor Hunt Harding, secre-

KILL NAZI SPY

France Rejects Clemency for 2 Others Facing Death.

PARIS—(U.P.)—France shot one spy today and rejected clemency appeals of two sentenced to death and two, including a woman, sentenced to prison terms as part of an intensified drive against espionage.

Hans Kuhn, a Luxembourg subject, was executed by a firing squad at Chalons-Sur-Marne. He was arrested last July, before the European war started, as he tried to cross the frontier with plans of French armaments including tanks. Two French accomplices were sentenced to 20 years each at hard labor.

Appeals of four German spies were rejected by the court. They are Friedrich Klein and Hans Baron, condemned to death last month; Robert Dorfman, sentenced to 10 years at hard labor, and Catharina Muller, sentenced to five years at hard labor.

President Off on 'Mystery Fishing Trip'

President Roosevelt, shown as he left yesterday on a 10-day fishing cruise, still maintained silence today regarding his complete plans. The chief executive has refused to discredit or encourage a suggestion that a meeting on the high seas might be held with representatives of Great Britain, France and Italy. (Warned by reporters that his no comment on the possibility of such a conference with foreign powers for peace talks inevitably would lead to various interpretations, Mr. Roosevelt insisted he had nothing to say.)

BUILD $500,000 GILEAD PLANT

Hydraulic Press to Construct New Building on 60-Acre Tract Near Town.

MT. GILEAD — Plans for the construction of a new $500,000 plant to be located between Mt. Gilead and Edison, one mile west of here, were announced today by Howard F. MacMillen, president of the Hydraulic Press Manufacturing company.

The Hydraulic company is one of the largest press manufacturing companies in the nation and its products are widely distributed.

The new plant will be located on approximately 60 acres of land purchased this week by the company about one-half mile from the present plant. There is no room for further expansion at the present site, MacMillen said.

The new site will be used to erect a modern building of the latest design, providing straight-line production methods to take care of greatly increased demand for the company's fast traverse presses.

At the same time, MacMillen urged the necessity of local action to solve the housing problem here. "While we are making this definite improvement we are counting on some local action in the way of providing improved housing facilities for our men," he said.

The expansion is to be carried out under the new financial program completed late last year. MacMillen said the new plant will permit the construction of much larger presses than has been possible in the present plant.

HEAR SENTENCE

30 Face U. S. Court Today in Cemetery Lot Fraud.

CINCINNATI — (AP) — Thirty persons who pleaded guilty to mail fraud and conspiracy charges in the sale of lots in Arlington Memorial cemetery here were summoned for sentencing this afternoon before U. S. District Judge MacSwinford.

Among them was Morton Gilbert, one-time head of a sales corporation which disposed of the lots. Gilbert was sentenced to 15 years imprisonment and fined $10,000 last May on a similar charge in another case.

Trial last month resulted in a jury acquitting six and disagreeing as to the guilt or innocence of four others.

During the trial government attorneys claimed midwesterners were fleeced of $1,200,000. Fifty-three persons were indicted.

RESIST REDS AGAIN AFTER FALLING BACK

Finnish Troops Leave Most Advanced Outposts, Keep Mannerheim Line Intact.

'HOLD TO THE DEATH'

Defenders Fight From Trees, Shell Holes to Keep Reds From New Positions.

BULLETIN

LONDON—(INS)—Finland has received and within a day or so will accept an offer of armed assistance from the western Powers, the newspaper Aftonbladet reported today, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Stockholm.

(By United Press)

HELSINKI, Finland—Fighting in trench, tree and shell hole, the Finns held back the Russian Red army today in the 15th day of its offensive against the Mannerheim line.

It was admitted that the Finns had withdrawn from their most advanced positions but it was asserted that the Mannerheim line remained intact and that the determined men in it would hold it to the death.

The position as explained in dispatches from the front was that the Finns had abandoned, before the constant hammering of constantly reinforced Russian shock troops, the most advanced outposts of their line.

These outposts, it was said, were not part of the Mannerheim line proper but were extra-line defense constructed late last fall when war loomed daily as more unavoidable. They are not considered part of the Mannerheim line proper, it was asserted, and in abandoning them the Finns have retired only to the stronger points immediately behind them.

Main Line Intact.

An official army spokesman confirmed this situation to the United Press and said that at no point had the Russians made contact with the main Mannerheim line.

How deep the advanced line was, it was not known. It was known, however, that the advanced line was held by considerably smaller forces than those

FARE CUT DUE

ICC Orders 2-Cent Rail Tariff Resumed in East.

The Interstate Commerce commission in Washington today refused to extend beyond March 24 the present basic passenger coach fare of 2.5 cents per mile for eastern railroads. The fare will revert to 2 cents at that date.

The 2.5 cent fare became effective July 25, 1938, for an 18-month experimental period. At the expiration of the period Jan. 24, the commission ordered a two months extension to permit hearings on the railroads' petition for extension.

The commission declared the future "revenue results would probably be more favorable" under the 2-cent fare. The ruling covers a territory bounded on the west by Chicago, St. Louis and Lake Michigan, and on the south by the Ohio and Potomac rivers.

President Daniel Willard of the B. and O. railway vigorously opposed continuance of the 2.5 basic fare.

Welles to Discuss Contraband Control With Allies

DIPLOMAT TO LEAVE ABOARD ITALIAN SHIP

Departs Tomorrow With Study of Contraband Issue as Primary Purpose.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON—High congressional sources said today that the primary purpose of Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles' trip to Europe is to adjust differences between the United States and Great Britain over Allied contraband control and mail inspection systems.

Secretary of State Cordell Hull, according to the same sources, has asked congress to take no retaliatory action against British detention of United States mail until Welles returns and reports.

Wells, career diplomat of 25 years experience, leaves the capital today and sails from New York on the Italian liner Rex tomorrow for a trip that will take him to Italy, Switzerland, Germany, France and Great Britain.

Isolationists charge that the trip is comparable to the World war assignment of Col. Edward M. House, who was Woodrow Wilson's "peace emissary."

But Welles carries—and this point has been emphasized by President Roosevelt and Hull—no authority either to offer proposals or make commitments in behalf of the United States. Mr. Roosevelt has said that the purpose of the trip was to gather for him confidential information.

Not "Peace Promoter."

Congressional sources admitted that the administration was not sending Welles to Europe as a "peace promoter" but said it was hoped that he could work out with British officials a readjustment of the contraband control and mail inspection systems which have caused this country to protest vigorously.

The United States has protested delays to American ships at contraband control stations and their opening and seizure of American mail bound for Germany. Some of those protests have not been answered.

Hull, it was said in congress, is depending upon Welles to solve those problems and, therefore, has appealed to congressional leaders to side-track any moves to put congress on record as condemning the British blockade tactics.

There have been increasing indications of desires to place congress on record with a vigorous protest against British activities which affect this country's mail and shipping.

Saturday night will be sort of a "homecoming" for Jack Dugger, a former Mansfielder who will perform with the Canton McKinley cagers against the Tygers on the high school floor. Jack made two trips to the state tournament as a Tyger and expects to go again this year as a Bulldog. The Bulldogs are undefeated, but they will probably have their fingers crossed Saturday night as they haven't forgotten their close call in the first Mansfield-Canton game, the latter team winning 41 to 40. Dugger moved to Canton with his parents last summer.

A crowd of nearly 1,200 heard Chaillaux, who is director of the Legion's department that is permanently assigned to "keep America American," in his first talk here.

QUIZ OF PRIEST PROTESTED BY 2 OF COMMITTEE

'Don't Think He's Mixed in Subversive Element,' Says One of Investigators.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Objections were raised within the Dies committee today to calling Rev. Charles E. Coughlin to the witness stand, but no decision was reached.

The question came up yesterday when Chairman Dies (D.-Tex.) was asked at a press conference whether the committee would investigate Father Coughlin. Dies replied that the Royal Oak, Mich., priest had signified in one of his publications that he wished to be called.

Rep. Mason (R.-Ill.) commented later that he had no fixed view on hearing the priest, but added, "I don't think he has been mixed in with these subversive elements."

Rep. Dempsey (D.-N.M.), like Mason a committee member, told reporters:

"I don't think that the committee should be used as a sounding board for any advocate of class hatred."

Other committeemen, who asked that their names not be used, said that for the reasons given by Mason and Dempsey they doubted the wisdom of having the priest testify.

Replying to one inquiry regarding Father Coughlin, Dies said the question of calling him posed this problem: Whether the committee should confine itself to organizations with alleged foreign connections or should plunge into a domestic field lacking foreign implications.

"Personally," Dies said, "I believe that anyone who preaches religious, racial or class hatred is unAmerican."

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)— Attorney General Robert H. Jackson today discarded as "inappropriate" one of the last legal actions ordered by his predecessor in office, associate Supreme Court Justice Frank Murphy.

He dismissed charges against 16 persons who were indicted in Detroit by a grand jury, ordered by Murphy, for allegedly conspiring to induce Americans to enlist in the Spanish Loyalist army.

"Since these acts were not prosecuted when they were new or current," he said, "it seems in appropriate to begin prosecution for activities so long known to the government."

FAIR ENOUGH!

Hearst Open to Criticism But Many Critics Couldn't Hold Their Jobs With Him

—By WESTBROOK PEGLER

NEW YORK—It is worth noting that much of the hate file on William Randolph Hearst has been contributed by petty culprits who were no better men in any phase of morals or ethics than Hearst himself.

They were glad to take his money for doing his work, never did possess a measurable fraction of his ability and were so low in the scale of those who served him that Hearst never even knew they lived.

If Mr. Hearst was in dirty business, he was a big operator and a success, not a paltry punk and a failure. And he apparently never violated any principle of his own, but thoroughly believed in his methods.

As much cannot be said for men who admit that they prostituted their trashy talents for more money than they were worth in the regular market, the differential being the wage of shame, and didn't turn square until some minor executive down the line got rid of them as a rich man's gardener exterminates plant lice.

The saloons and left-wing alcoves are full of alcoholic flops and discredited mediocrities who worked for Mr. Hearst as long as he would have them around, but never saw a day when they could write as well as Hearst.

When Mr. Hearst was on his career he was essentially a journalist rather than a business man. He could write a piece and hunch a news campaign. He left his imprint on the journalism of this and other countries, particularly England—a heelprint, if you will.

But if it be said that he was an unprincipled rich man taking dangerous liberties, then it follows that he always found high-principled poor men to sell their principles for a few dirty dimes. It is easy to understand his contempt for those who criticize him on the basis of inside experience. His power existed not merely in his money.

He was one of the giants of his day, and in his early phase was regarded as a dangerous radical and, by many, as the poor man's pal. He was, in his main traits, the Franklin D. Roosevelt of his time, the pampered son of a rich mother, contrary, mischievous, wilful and strong.

But this is not an obituary. I put Mr. Hearst in the past tense here because his era is over. My point in raising the subject is to check the good faith of a school of poseurs who say "Hearst" as they would utter the word "snake."

Blase liars, barflies, loafers and expense account chiselers who served Hearst, when he had it, blandly incriminate themselves now in reminiscences of the hilarious excesses of Hearst journalism—most of which are subject to a heavy discount.

The fact is that Mr. Hearst was a generous employer who was years ahead of Henry Ford. He raised wages not only of his star performers and the wholesale grocers whom he sometimes brought in as editors, but of the leg and desk men, too. His expense accounts were fabulous.

Yet, Hearst men who would go off and hide all day in saloons and phone in half-information picked up by phone from police stations, now blame the Hearst system for exploiting inaccurate or false information.

Phony Bohemians, who deserted their families, accuse Mr. Hearst of cruelty to the families of employes who were let out abruptly for cause.

Men who never worked in any department of the newspaper business or in Chicago at all repeat hearsay accounts of bloody raids of Hearst gorillas on innocent, little, ragged Dans to make them sell more papers.

I hustled papers and never saw a stabbing or heard a shot, and Jimmy Petrillo, the dictator of the Chicago Musicians Union, says his observations agree with mine. The Hearst drivers sold each kid as many papers as he thought he could peddle and were on their way, for papers, like pancakes, are no good cold.

The anti-Hearst tradition would wear better if the witnesses did not include so many Hearst failures who have turned state's evidence.

3-DAY TAPPAN MEETING ENDS

Banquet Highlights Annual Conference of Company's Sales Representatives.

The annual banquet of Tappan Stove company sales representatives was held last night at the Mansfield-Leland hotel, providing a social interlude in a three-day sales and merchandising conference.

The conference opened Wednesday morning and ends today after the sales representatives have been taken through the company's enameling plant. New models in stoves have been demonstrated during the meeting and a merchandising program for 1940 outlined.

About 50 salesmen from all parts of the country and 20 Mansfield men of the company attended the affair last night which was presided over by A. L. Smith, C. V. McConnell, sales manager, was official host.

A highlight of the entertainment was a comedy sketch written by Miss Roselyne Zychick, a secretary at Tappan's, and enacted by salesmen.

The sketch revoives around a mother and daughter who return from a cooking school to find father working away before an old fashioned range and demand a modern, up-to-date range. But before father is convinced he falls asleep and dreams of five "Taps" who come marching in chef's uniforms to explain the necessity for keeping abreast of progress.

The men who played "ladies" were W. J. Daugherty and E. C. Donnan. Donald C. Sharp played the father, and the five "Taps" were Charles W. Bonar, Martin V. Wolf, J. Paul Cole, Richard Tappan and Arthur Oberlin.

Athens County Residents Get Fines on Relief Charges.

ATHENS—(U.P.)—The state investigation into Athens county relief administration brought fines and suspended jail sentences to two persons while a third man was bound to the county grand jury for further action.

Gail and Basil Mourne, brothers from Doanville, were fined $10 and $20, respectively, and given suspended terms for the unlawful acceptance of poor relief. Clyde Bobo, Athens, was held to the grand jury under $200 bond.

Charges against Lawrence Skinner, Glouster and Herman Eing, Millfield, were dismissed because of confused records in the relief office.

TROOP 2 HOST AT SCOUT MEET

Girls Give Program In Observance of International Month.

Troop No. 2 of Mansfield Girl Scouts last night entertained Troop No. 1 of Senior high school in an observance of International month on the Girl Scout calendar.

Throughout the month, Scouts all over the world are trying to understand the lives, customs and problems of their foreign sisters.

No. 2 Troop, of which Mrs. R. M. Gage and Mrs. I. E. Cutting are leaders, has devoted its time to learning the folk dances of some of their European and American sisters.

Last night they gave a dance festival at the First Congregational church, with Troop 1 as guests, demonstrating folk dances of Czechoslovakia, Denmark, Scotland and Colonial America.

LIMBACH GIVEN 'BONER' AWARD AS POLITICOS GET LAMPOONING

(By International News Service)

COLUMBUS — Democratic State Chairman Arthur L. Limbach today possessed the Columbus Press club's first annual "boner" award. It was presented to the New Philadelphian last night at the club's fifth annual "Gridiron" show, in which Columbus newspaper reporters and wire service correspondents lampooned politicians and public officials.

The mock trophy, a huge animal shinbone, was awarded to Limbach for his recent announcement that U. S. Sen. Vic Donahey would enter the race for the Democratic presidential nomination as a "stalking horse" for President Roosevelt. Donahey later refuted the assertion.

Governor Bricker headed the list of 550 politically-prominent figures who watched and listened as a cast of 40 "roasted" many in the audience in a show entitled "coattail caravan"

The "ribbing" through skits and songs was directed at President Roosevelt and his aids, Governor Bricker and Republican state officials, U. S. Sen. Robert A. Taft and other GOP presidential possibilities, Limbach, GOP State Chairman Ed. D. Schnorr, Donahey, Mayor Floyd F. Green, Columbus; Mayor Harold H. Burton, Cleveland, and others.

One of the highlights of the show was a skit and song about the alleged coolness between Bricker and Schorr over party policy.

To the popular tune "If I Had My Way," a character impersonating Bricker (Don Power, mentioned in the song, is the governor's secretary) sang:

"If I had my way, Taft would give way to me,
A handsomer candidate I know I would be,
The budget I'd balance,
All taxes reduce.
You would see
E-con-o-my
From A to Z."

An actor playing the part of Schnorr countered:

"If I had my way, I would be the big boss,
And out of the window Don Power I'd toss.
A thousand and one jobs
I'd award each day,
The G. O. P.
Would not see
E-con-o-my."

The recent relief controversy between the Bricker administration and Cleveland's Mayor Burton gave the cast a chance to sing the tune "Oh, Johnny" with the following words:

Burton—"Oh Johnny, oh Johnny,
Give us relief.
What makes you act so cold?
You're very handsome indeed.
But it's food that we need.
And dough, Johnny, dough, Johnny, dough."

Bricker—"Oh Harold, oh Harold
It's not my fault.
The W. P. A. called a halt.
I hate to give you the gate.
But I'm a candidate.
So it's no, Harold, no Harold, no."

The principal speaker was John L. Morrison, editor of the Greenville, Pa., Record-Argus. Ralph J. Donaldson, Columbus correspondent for the Cleveland Plain Dealer, was master of ceremonies.

FOR POSTERITY

Ohio Film to Be Preserved in Oglethorpe Crypt.

Some 6,000 years from now people will be able to explore Ohio through means of imperishable records which are being prepared for an indestructable crypt at Oglethorpe university, Atlanta, Ga.

Word of the crypt and how to open it will be placed in the great libraries of the world, including the ancient archives of China, Thibet, China, Siam and Java.

A feature that will go into the crypt will be a motion picture film of "Let's Explore Ohio", made by the Standard Oil company of Ohio, with projectors and directions on how to operate it. In case the English language is destroyed by that time, there will be a key for interpreting the letters.

The crypt will contain the story of present day civilization, which undoubtedly will be lost by another 60 centuries.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—As one who was sure from the first that "Our Town" of the stage would be forever safe from the movies, I'm here to eat that self-assurance, and even before the movie version is finished.

Thornton Wilder's scenery-lacking play of life, love and death in an America that was but is no more—specifically New England when this century was new—is having tender treatment.

Grover's Corners, New Hampshire, 1901, has risen in all its nostalgic sweetness and homey-ness to fill a large sound stage. The adjoining white frame houses of Dr. Gibbs and Editor Webb, represented in the theater by a couple of arched trellises, are there complete—but not the least colossal.

Sol Lesser, an experienced producer whose recent efforts have been devoted to the glorification of Bobby Breen's now vanishing soprano, is the maestro in charge. Sol is a sweet fellow, most enthusiastic about his first serious Brush with Art. "I'm a Jekyll and Hyde when I make a picture," says Sol. "Jekyll in me says to make it fine, artistic—and Hyde says to cut the costs. This time I'm letting Jekyll do the dictating, and putting Hyde behind me."

The director is Sam Wood one of those unshowy directors who knows his business and his art, too. Sam has been making 'em nearly 25 years now, all kinds. He likes it that way. He can toss off a "Goodbye, Mr. Chips," or a Marx brothers' opera, or a lowly but of hokum like "Navy Blue and Gold" with equal nonchalance. He is as happy about "Our Town," and the novel things he can do with it, as he was about "Mr. Chips."

Frank Craven, the "stage manager" of the play, is at the old stand for the movie. Frank won't have so much work to do now, work like shifting prop tables and chairs and serving, in turn, as preacher, ice cream dispenser, and actor of parts. But he'll be busy telling about Grover's Corners and the characters, and overseeing matters generally. He'll be on screen part of the time and only on the sound track other times.

They have Beulah Bondi and Guy Kibbee as the Webbs, and Fay Bainter and Thomas Mitchell as the Gibbses. William Holden, the "Golden Boy," is George Gibbs and they have the right Emily Webb. That's Martha Scott.

What the stage play only suggested in the way of houses and furniture and "props" is all on the sound stage, and it's a perfect job. William Cameron Menzies designed the production, and Lewis Rachmil has built the sets. Rachmil, who has worked on the Hopalong Cassidy westerns, has built these sets for practical shooting. By sliding or lifting the "wild" walls, the camera can peek into any room of the Gibbs and Webb homes. Julie Heron, the set dresser, has put America, 1901, into those furnishings. From Dr. Gibbs' little office to Dr. Gibbs' little workshed, those rooms have the look and the "feel" of being lived in, and it's like that at the Webbs' next door.

There's one important change from the stage version, and as it seems to be fine with Wilder it should be all right with the rest of us. That's in the ending. Probably as a precaution against inducing mass suicides, they're going to give Life a better break over Death.

APPOINTS NINE 1940 CHAIRMEN FOR RED CROSS

Finefrock Announces Chapter Organization Set-up For Year's Activities.

Committee chairmen who will set up their own groups and serve through 1940 were named this week by the Richland County chapter of the Red Cross at its February meeting. The chairmen were announced today by John Finefrock, chapter chairman.

Mrs. W. J. Bishop, who has directed the activities of the Junior Red Cross for a number of years, was named again to that committee, and Mrs. Leopold A. Adams, was returned as chairman of the production committee.

Other chairmen are R. K. Clark, home service; Fred L. Tracy, disaster preparedness; R. D. Iden, first aid; Harold D. Burns, life saving, committee on Roll Call for 1941, Milo W. Hieber; home hygiene, Mrs. J. B. Simons, and motor corps service, Mrs. E. L. Balyeat.

Mrs. Adams reported that her committee and its volunteer workers had completed and shipped three cases of clothing from the war relief quota, including 120 women's and children's heavy dresses; 95 knit sweaters; and 24 complete layettes. This shipment represents 2,120 hours of volunteer labor for the war relief work.

Additional volunteer hours totaled 197 for members of the executive committee and instructors in the various classes.

Mrs. Bishop reported that her juniors had purchased 18 pairs of eye glasses for underprivileged school children. Funds for this are raised by the collection of sales stamps.

Classes in life saving, first aid and home hygiene got under way during the past two weeks, it was reported.

Gertrude B. English, executive secretary of the chapter said her office had handled 49 home service cases during January, of which 25 were disabled World war veterans and 13 were families of deceased veterans.

THEATERS

HOLLYWOOD stars figure prominently in sports. When the nation's leading golfers play in Los Angeles, they frequently call on Bing Crosby, Bob Hope, or William Frawley for competition in practice rounds. Crosby is a steady low 70 shooter. Allan Jones is an expert horseman, ranking with "Big Boy" Williams, a four-goal polo player. Ice skating is another favorite sport with John Howard its chief supporter. Olympe Bradna is another excellent skater, almost rating with Sonja Henie. George Raft boxed professionally, as did Victor McLaglen, while Bob Ryan was four times heavyweight champion at Dartmouth.

Homey Story.

Admirers of James Stewart—and who isn't—and of Margaret Sullavan will welcome them to the Madison theater, come Saturday, in "The Shop Around the Corner." No tale of glamorous lovers is this, but a homey little comedy romance of a novelty shop owner and his every-day clerks. Instead of spectacular trappings it has about it a quality of truth and sincerity. Frank Morgan is the shop proprietor. Stewart and Sullavan appeared together several years ago in "Next Time We Love." The locale of "The Shop" is in Budapest.

Famous Play Revived.

The boisterous old days when New York was little more than a pup of a town are revived in "Little Old New York," the old Ridda Johnson Young play which once served as a silent movie vehicle for Marion Davies. It is at the Ohio. The new version, brought up to modern standards of staging and photography, has a notable cast. Alice Faye is seen as the brawling belle of the tavern, with Richard Green as the young inventor Robert Fulton. Fred MacMurray and Brenda Joyce complete the quartet of major players.

Western Feud.

The eternal movie struggle over the rights to the water hole on the Western prairies goes on in "Saga of Death Valley," which brings Roy Rogers and George "Gabby" Hayes to the Ritz screen today and tomorrow. The story centers around two brothers, separated in childhood who grow up in different walks of life and whose paths cross dramatically in a typical Western feud. "Fast and Furious," the second film is a comedy with Ann Sothern and Franchot Tone.

Fight for Prize.

A shipment of $15,000 in silver bullion is the prize worth fighting for in "Santa Fe Marshall," and fight they do with the bad men headed by a woman, while the incomitable Hopalong Cassidy poses as one of them. William Boyd and Russell Hayden are seen in their usual roles of Hoppy and Lucky, with Marjorie Rambeau and Bernadine Hayes in supporting roles. "Indianapolis Speedway," with Pat O'Brien, John Payne, Ann Sheridan and Gale Page is also being shown at the Majestic.

Happens In the Movies.

There's never a dull moment in the life of a florist's messenger, according to "Chasing Trouble." He plays handwriting expert, cupid, stooge for desperate saboteur agents, is kidnaped and escapes in the nick of time to save the heroine. It all happens to Frankie Darro as the messenger. The picture is at the Park, which also is showing Alexander Korda's colorful "Elephant Boy" with Sabu.

OUT OF JAIL, INTO OHIO PEN

Man Served Delinquency Term Then Went to Columbus on Robbery Sentence.

Before Orlo Hinkle, 26, Millersburg, completes his six-months sentence in the Richland county jail, he will be taken to the Ohio penitentiary to start a one-to-25-year term for robbery.

Hinkle, named recently in a secret grand jury indictment for robbery, changed his plea to guilty yesterday afternoon and was sentenced to the pen by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

About two months ago Hinkle was sentenced to the county jail on his plea of guilty to charge of contributing to the delinquency of a minor. County authorities said he will be taken to the pen immediately although he still has four months to serve on the other sentence.

He was sentenced yesterday for snatching a purse from Mrs. T. J. McDermott, wife of a Mansfield attorney, several weeks ago. The charge was not brought against him until after he had been sentenced to the county jail for luring a 13-year-old Pavonia girl to his room in Mansfield.

TWO new season records were established by the Long Bar entry in the Women's City bowling league at the Meder alleys last night.

The Long Bar keglers upset 2461 pins to establish a new three-game mark, to erase the old record of 2315 set by the Carek Florists earlier this season.

The other mark to fall was the game record of 854 held by the Richland Printers, and the Long Bar broke this standard with a game of 869. The record-breakers set up the big game after opening with a 750. They closed with an 842 as they swept their series with Shelley's Candies.

Evelyn Jocha led the Long Bars to their record total with a 550 series, which she climaxed with a 215 game. Donna Schuster, with a middle tilt of 210, hit 539 and Katherine Cheney followed with 518. Dee Schroff contributed a 214 to the record game, and missed the 500 figure by only 11 pins.

The individual race last night was set by Sophia Meder of the Carek Florists, who fashioned a 598 series. She compiled scores of 214, 204 and 180 as the Florists took two decisions from the Brenner Jewelers, led by Mary McMullen's 560, which included a 212.

Opening with a 202, Margaret Baker came through with a 521 as the Modern Beauty Salon won a pair of games from the Morgan Dry Cleaners. Kobacker's store won three games from the Richland Printers in the other match.

IN THE RUHL BOOK

By OSCAR RUHL,
News-Journal Sports Editor.

ONLY three times in 15 games this season have the Tyger cagers of Mansfield high school scored more than eight points in the opening period.

The failure of the Tygers to hit their stride in the early minutes of play has been responsible for virtually every defeat suffered by the club in this campaign.

"We wouldn't lose many ball games if we would only start scoring right off the bat," Vern Hoffman stated today.

"That's what we will have to do to stand a chance with Canton," he added

The undefeated Canton McKinley club comes to Mansfield high Saturday night, and there is no need to do much investigating around the Tyger lot to learn that the Bengals want to beat the Bulldogs to avenge a recent one-point defeat.

Checking over the statistics, Hoffman finds that the Tygers have scored more than five points only seven times in 15 opening periods. "This is poor offensive play," Hoffman contends.

"We might beat Canton Saturday if we can hold our own in the first period," he figures.

In the 15 games this season, the Tygers have tallied only 99 points in the first quarter compared to 159 in the second, 168 in the third and 151 in the fourth.

Mansfield tallied only five points in each of the first two periods in the first game with Canton, tallied 10 in the third and 20 in the fourth to tie the score. The Tygers lost this game on a free throw in the final second.

In the first periods of other defeats, the Tygers scored eight against Columbus North, five against New Philadelphia, the same number against Ashland and only two against Hamilton.

Coach Blames Poor Officiating.

WHISTLE-TOOTERS are primarily responsible for the general ragged brand of basketball being played in some portions of Ohio this season. At least, that is the opinion advanced by one of the coaches, who prefers to remain anonymous.

"To put it bluntly, we've had some terrible officiating," he said. "There are a lot of nice fellows who have been working games, but the trouble is that most of them don't know much about basketball. Personally, I've seen only one official who has been thoroughly competent.

"An official must be on the job every second and also be consistent in his rulings. If he's lax one second and strict the next, his antics will disrupt play and result in just another rough-an-tumble contest.

"Boys tighten up when they don't know what to expect from an official, and, generally, that's been the situation this season."

Whether or not this coach is right or merely making a poor season look good by blaming the officiating is more than we can say, as the number of games we've witnessed this season is limited.

However, it is not the first complaint we've heard this season about officiating.

Just why the officiating should be worse this season than in the past is difficult to solve. Rule changes have not been so drastic that they have affected the officiating to such an extent.

There might be something to the officials' contention that the type of money being offered by some schools is not attractive enough for the capable men.

Their refusal to work for meager wages may have resulted in the employment of too many inexperienced whistle-blowers.

Raemelton, Moose, Isaly Quints Launch Second Half With Wins

First Half Champs Turn Back Rex Billiards, 32 to 24, at Friendly House.

OPPOSITION from new directions looms for the Raemelton Farm club as it attempt to win both halves of the Senior A league races at the Friendly House.

The Farmers launched their second round schedule last night, and came through with a 32 to 24 victory over the Rex Billiards in a ball game decided in the second period.

One of the first round second division clubs which showed new power last night were the Moose lodge representatives, who turned back the Augustine Canfields, 36 to 25.

The Isaly Dairy quintet measured off Deley's Cafe, 35 to 26, and looked good while doing it.

Francis Bdown and Mike Horning were the big guns as the Moose toppled the Oilmen. There never was much question about the outcome after the first half. The lodgemen jumped into a 12 to 3 lead in the opening quarter and held a 22 to 9 advantage at the half.

Brown contributed 14 points to the Moose total and Horning added 11 points. Tony Augustine was high for the losers with a dozen points.

The Farmers held a slight 5 to 3 lead at the end of the first quarter of their game with the Cuemen, but tallied 14 points in the second quarter to hold a 19 to 9 advantage at the intermission.

Kenny Hardin, with 10 points, led the Raemelton club, and Joe Wentz scored seven for the Billiards.

* * *

Paced by Roberts, who scored 14 points, and France, who scored 10, the Isaly quintet led all the way to trim the Cafes. The Dairys were ahead 11 to 6 at the finish of the opening quarter and 16 to 11 at the intermission. Brubach was high for the losers with 12.

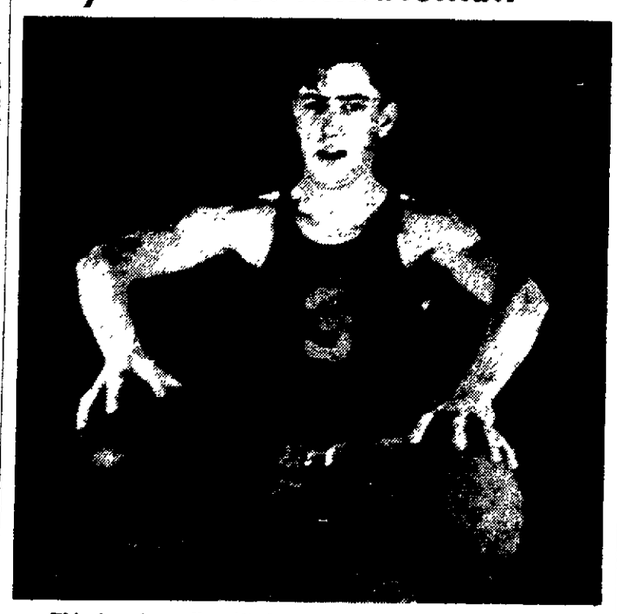
Easy Trick for Minuteman



This boy is really gifted with big paws. His name is Bill Shaffer and he plays a forward post for Coach Johnny Rees' Lexington high quintet, which closes its regular season on its home floor against Bellville tonight. Although five inches short of six feet, Shaffer can hold a basketball in each hand without effort, as the photo shows. He is a senior and captain of the club.

Satterlee Club Holds Edge In Tight Race

Protects 2-Game Lead Over Ringside Cafe by Sweeping B League Match.

THE Satterlee Restaurant and Ringside Cafe clubs refused to give ground in their battle for first place in the Commercial B league at the Meder alleys last night.

The Satterlee club retained its two-game advantage by sweeping its match with the Yuncker Sports, and the Ringside keglers kept pace b. pulling in three wins at the expense of the Kochheiser Sports.

The two leaders also staged a battle for scoring honors last night, but this was taken by the Ringside entry. Led by Fritz Vogel's 611, the Ringside team came through with a 2732 total. The Satterlee club reached 2710.

* * *

Jim Dunn smacked out a 608 to lead the Southern Hotel to two wins over the Mohican Chevrolets, and the Mansfield Printers jumped into third place ahead of the Yuncker team by taking two games from the Heilman Grocers.

The Mansfield Rugs swept their series with the Shelby Cycles and the Possum Run Golfers won two games from Ohio Public Service in the other matches.

Waterloo Not In Same Class With Renaissance Club, Cage-goers Contend.

By CHARLES MARTIN

TWO FACTS are uppermost today in the minds of approximately 300 cagegoers who watched the Waterloo Wonders exhibit their wares on the Senior high planks last night.

The first is that the Wonders aren't in the same class with the New York Renaissance, and, secondly, that the down-staters failed to play the brand of basketball they did in a previous appearance in Mansfield.

True, the Wonders defeated the City League All-Stars, 38 to 32, but the contest the spectators enjoyed most was the thrilling 36 to 31 decision the Yuncker Sports took from the Shelley Chocolates to gain a place in the City league championship playoff.

The Wonders unlimbered their spectacular passing attack in the last period, but for the balance of the game they looked like any strong semi-pro club

In their last tussle against an All-Star team here a couple of years ago, the Wonders played brilliantly. They lacked the spark to duplicate the feat last night.

While the fans came to see the former Class B high school quintet perform, they saw some fast and furious action in the opening contest.

The Sportsmen and Chocolates fought tooth-and-nail for three periods before the Yuncker club's height began to take the advantage.

Ten times the two combines knotted the score. The Shelley five grabbed a two-point lead in the first frame, fell behind in the third quarter, then forged ahead early in the last chapter only to see its lead vanish when Al Stickler went on a scoring spree.

Stickler who was high-point man for the game, collected eight points in the last stanza to enable his team to pile up a seven-point lead.

Manager Jimmy Breres' Sports led, 26 to 23, as the clubs opened the last quarter. Fielders by Noel Morgan and Gene Rudolph put the Chocolates ahead. John Rees then tallied his only goal of the evening and the Sports were leading, 28 to 27, and never lost the advantage.

Shelleys were ahead, 8 to 6, in the first frame, and the score was deadlocked at 13-13 at the intermission. Stickler dumped in 19 points, while Rudolph, who was outstanding for the losers, led his teammates with 17 markers.

And now to get back to the Waterloo-All-Star affair. Although the invading five held the upperhand all the way, it was apparent that the All-Stars might have made a different story if they could have located the basket more consistently.

Numerous times in the final period when the Wonders were putting on their act the City league players broke up the passes and had easy under-the-basket shots but couldn't connect.

Paced by Orlyn and Wyman Roberts, cousins, the Wonders marched into the lead late in the initial quarter and never trailed. The All-Stars gave them a battle until midway in the second frame, and then the Roberts boys started hitting from practically any point on the court.

Bill Hosket, former Ohio State center, entered the affray in the second half, and while he failed to score a point the fans were impressed with his ability to throw the ball with lightning speeds almost the length of the floor.

The clowning act resembled the one they used in their last game here. Part of the time Orlyn Roberts, one of the club's star passers, was flipping it backhanded and then rolling it on the floor.

The Wonders led, 12 to 9, in the initial quarter, 25 to 12, at the half, and 34 to 23 at the end of the third. The winners scored just four points in the last chapter, devoting the rest of the time to amusing the gathering with the passing game. The All-Stars kept pecking away to cut the Wonders' lead to six points before the final gun.

Orlyn Roberts scored 12 points, and Wyman added 10. Stickler was high for the City circuit team

MARKET HOLDS TO YESTERDAY'S CLOSING LEVELS

Minor Price Changes Leave Stock Trends in Doubt; Sales Survey Studied.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK— Inconsequential price changes either way today left stock market trends in doubt.

Dealings were sluggish from the start and the majority of listed shares held to yesterday's closing levels.

Bonds dropped and commodities, together with foreign securities markets, were mixed.

Business, politics and the European war, brokers said, provided scant inspiration for speculative contingents and few traders were disposed to broaden commitments in any line. Thursday's unimpressive recovery was used as an argument by those who contend stocks are not yet ready to break the lengthy stalemate.

Followers of merchandising shares studied the Dun & Bradstreet survey disclosing the country's retail spending this week was spotty, with some sections registering improvement and others suffering from falling demand. Sales for the nation as a whole were a shade under the preceding week but exceeded the comparable period last year by 6 to 10 pr cent.

Notice was taken of the department of commerce figures showing United States exports of merchandise in January topped December by about $400,000 and were greater than January, 1939, by $147,000,000. Heavy cotton, airplane and machinery snipments accounted for the increase.

Three Danish Ships and Italian Vessel Destroyed

BUYS $13,000 IN MATERIALS FOR STREETS

City Board Lets 9 Contracts, 7 Firms Submit Same Bid on Some Items.

Nine ore contracts, totaling more than $13,000, for materials and supplies to be used in the maintenance of city streets this summer were awarded today by the city board of control.

The board had little choice in making its purchases, since in the majority of instances, the bids were identical, as many as seven firms submitting the same prices on the same items.

With the exception of one, all contracts were let to Mansfield building supply dealers.

The major contract went to the Simon Small and Son company, one of the seven local firms which submitted identical bids of $4,360 on the delivery of 10 cars of Portland cement, at the unit price of $2.18 per barrel.

The other bids were submitted by Branyan and Bros., Voegele Bros. Rusk Bros., Lomax Coal company, Builders Supply company and Kallmerten-Baer, Inc.

Awarded 3 Contracts.

Three contracts totaling $4,290 went to the Builders Supply company, one of the same seven firms which also submitted bids on Mason sand, concrete sand and gravel.

Identical bids were submitted on 50 cars of gravel to cost $2,750.

The Builders Supply's price on the Mason and concrete sand was 10 cents lower per ton than the other six competing companies. They were awarded the contract for delivery of 20 cars of concrete sand for $990 and 10 cars of Mason sand for $550. The other firms bid $1,100 on the concrete sand and $605 on the Mason sand.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said that where identical bids were submitted the contracts were let to different companies in order to distribute the business.

Of the seven firms, all of which submitted identical prices, Kallmerten-Baer, Inc., was awarded the contract for 100 cubic yards of pre-mix concrete for $875.

Contract for 50 tons of calcium chloride was awarded Voegele Bros., whose price of $1,100 was identical with that submitted by Kallmerten-Baer, the only other bidder.

The Medal Brick and Tile company of Wooster, lowest of two bidders got the contract for 40,000 2½ inch paving brick for $1,200. The Metropolitan Paving Brick company, Canton bid $1,230.

Home Materials company was given the contract for delivery of 400 gallons of white traffic paint on its bid of $660 which was the same as the price submitted by the Goetz Hardware company.

Goetz received the contract for 400 gallons of orange traffic paint, underbidding Home Materials company by $4. Goetz submitted a price of $604 and Home Materials $608.

UP TO WEATHER

WPA Ready to Start Work on West 4th Water Project.

City officials today were waiting for the WPA to start work on a $38,000 water line project which must be completed before the reconstruction of West Fourth street can be started.

Council gave the state highway department the "go" signal on the resurfacing job Wednesday night when agreed on the type of pavement to be put down and officials yesterday notified the WPA that they were prepared to go ahead with the replacement of water lines on the street.

A crew of 65 workmen have been assigned to the project by WPA and work is expected to get under way as soon as the weather permits.

The resurfacing project calls for the removal of the old street car rails from Diamond street to a point near Linden road and the laying of a 22-foot center lane of brick with six-foot concrete parking lanes on either side.

Mansfield was alloted $11,425 in the distribution of $2,838,261 from the gasoline excise fund, it was announced in Columbus today by State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson.

RENEWS DEMAND TO BAN FLIGHTS

Senator Clark Seeks Again to Halt Airmail Shipments in View of Censorship.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Although rebuffed once by the senate, Senator Clark (D.-Mo.) today demanded speedy action by the foreign relations committee on a bill to ban airmail flight to Bermuda as long as British censorship operates there.

He tried unsuccessfully on the senate floor yesterday to insert such a provision in the treasury-postoffice appropriations bill.

Clarks' charge that British censorship at Bermuda constituted "illegal rifling" of United States mails touched off senate discussion not only of that situation but of the recent German threat to sink neutral vessels which had been forced into British ports for contraband search.

Chairman Pittman (D.-Nev.) of tehe senate foreign relations committee, who opposed Clarks' amendment, told the senate yesterday that the time might be at hand now for retaliation against the British, but if it was, no legislation should be passed until it had been considered by a senate committee and the state department.

Senator Reynolds (D.-NC.) said talk of retaliation reminded him that congress had lifted the arms embargo last fall "for the purpose of assisting Great Britain."

"Speaking of retaliation," he said, "Great Britain retaliated by putting an embargo on our tobacco and our cotton and stopping our ships and searching our mail."

NO COMPLAINTS

Bates Said He Hasn't Received Any on Phone Sales Drive.

Police Chief Meade K. Bates said today that he had taken no action on complaints current yesterday concerning telephone sales campaigns being conducted by two Mansfield women's organizations.

The chief said no complaints had been filed with police.

He pointed out yesterday that if proof of misrepresentation were furnished, he would revoke a permit issued to the Sons of Union Veterans and the Women's Relief corps.

Mrs. Robert W. Jones, head of the American Legion auxiliary, and Mrs. Vernon B. Sherman, president of the Daughters of Union Veterans, complained yesterday that telephone canvassers were misrepresenting the campaign.

Mrs. Harry Constance, secretary to both the Sons of Union Veterans and the Women's Relief corps, which is staging the campaign to raise funds for flags for the new Johnny Appleseed Junior high school, said workers had been instructed not to confuse the names of the sponsoring auxiliaries with other organizations in the city.

TRIO INDICTED

Those indicted were: Donald Slater, 18, whom police said had confessed the murder; Mrs. Minnie Jenkins, 47, the slain man's widow; and their son, Merlin, 18.

ACTS TO FORM DEMOLAY ORDER

Grotto to Sponsor Masonic Youth Group, First Ever Organized Here.

Formation of a charter class of the order of DeMolay, Masonic youth group, was under way today following a meeting of Baku Grotto last night in Grotto hall.

The class is open to boys between the ages of 15 and 21 in Mansfield and nearby towns. Organization work is being headed by Howard Schuck, Grotto monarch.

Baku Grotto will sponsor the local chapter, the first ever organized in Mansfield. Headquarters will be at Grotto hall.

Here last night to assist in organization plans were Robert Solinger of Marion, district deputy of the DeMolay, and Ray Mayfield, past master councellor of the Marion chapter. Charles Kafer, member of Baku Grotto and past state master councellor of the order, explained the general purposes and teachings of the order.

Organization of several groups and teams within the chapter are also being planned. One of these is a DeMolay band, to be under the general supervision of J. Merton Holcombe, director of band music in the public schools assisted by Albert Perez.

Working with Schuck in forming the chapter are Holcombe, Kafer and Harry Colbow. The chapter must consist of at least 25 boys.

Line Breaks Cut Off Water Supply In 4 Parts of City

Four sections of the city were without water today as city workmen sought to repair new breaks in the distribution system resulting from the cold weather.

Service-Safety Director C. M. Crafton said the new breaks included a 12-inch main at North Main and Sixth streets this morning, and two breaks in the four-inch line on West Fourth street near Penn avenue, that will be replaced as soon as the WPA work starts on the street.

The other break occurred on West Park drive near the Coliseum last night and water-works department repairmen were called out to make the repairs.

Crafton said he expected that temporary repairs at least would be made on all the broken mains before onight. Water was shut off for several hours in the various sections of the city where the breaks occurred while the bursted sections were being replaced.

CAR HITS TRUCK

CLEVELAND —(U.P.)— Two men were killed when an automobile hit an icy rut, skidded and struck an automobile transport truck east of Cleveland late yesterday.

Leo J. Collins, 60, Euclid, railroad shop foreman, and Mrs. Dorothy Wappener, 38—friend of the Collins family were killed. George Carney, 25, Findlay, O., driver of the truck suffered minor injuries.

Legion Sends 1,000 Letters On Chaillaux Meet Next Week

More than 1,000 letters have been sent out this week by McVey Post, American Legion, inviting the public to the Madison theater next Tuesday night when Homer L. Chaillaux, Inglewood, Cal., will be the speaker.

Chaillaux is national director of the entire Legion Americanism program and will talk on the present battle to keep American a democracy.

Chaillaux is in possession of startling facts concerning the activities of un-American groups here and the findings of the Dies committee. Not the least interesting part of a Chaillaux meeting is the open forum afterward in which the Legion leader answers questions of all kinds regarding the "isms" in America.

While in Mansfield he will address several other groups. He is scheduled to speak at Rotary club Tuesday noon, a meeting to which other service clubs of the city have been invited, and at 1:50 will address a group of students at Senior high school.

This is the second time Chaillaux has appeared in Mansfield, having spoken here three years ago.

The general committee in charge of the meeting is made up of J. Kent Oberlin, chairman; H. W. Bishop, L. A. Schrack, C. B. Harris, S. V. Fox, Winfield Bonnell, H. W. Gibbs, State Commander R. B. Gardner, J. G. Blahnik, Earl Saltzgabor and Commander R. M. James.

Chairmen in charge of subcommittees are S. V. Fox, ushers; R. B. Gardner, reception committee; H. W. Gibbs, dinner; Bonnell, band and drum corps; Schrack, stage and properties; C. B. Harris, publicity.

WINS PAROLE

Ex-Ashland County Official to Leave O. S. R. Next Feb. 1.

Olen Faber, former Ashland county deputy treasurer who is serving a one-to-10-year term in the Mansfield reformatory for embezzlement, was among 157 reformatory inmates who were granted paroles today by the Ohio Pardon and Parole commission. He will not be released, however, until Feb. 1, 1941.

Also paroled was Walter Eugene Hicks, 18, Mansfield, serving an indeterminate sentence for breaking and entering. The youth, who will go free next Aug. 1, was sentenced last April by Probate Judge C. J. Anderson.

Faber entered the reformatory last April 10. His confession in connection with the misappropriation of funds in the Ashland county treasurer' soffice resulted in the resignation of his father, H. O. Faber, the treasurer under whom he was serving.

The state parole commission granted conditional releases to five other prisoners and continued 47 cases. Twenty inmates were restored to parole.

3 DIE IN CHAIR

OSSINING, N. Y.—(INS)—There were three less in the death house at Sing Sing today following last night's work by the executioner.

The three newest victims of the Sing Sing death chair were John Kulka, 24, and Bertal Tingstead, 29, convicted of killing Patrolman Humbert Moruzzi in a New York night club holdup, and Franklin W. Jenner, 22, who fatally beat Mrs. Florence Ames with a chair during a burglary of her home in Pompey, N. Y.

STATE WORKER SUSPENDED

COLUMBUS—(U.P.)—William B. Gregory, a coal passer at the Dayton State hospital, was suspended from his job for nine days by Supt. E. L. Hooper today for alleged neglect of duty.

2 TAKEN TO PEN

Release of Third Man Cuts Jail Population to 20.

The county jail population dropped three today with the removal of two prisoners to the Ohio penitentiary and the release of another, leaving 20 in the jail.

Willie Gaines, Mansfiel, colored, and Oleo Hinkle, Millersburg, were taken to the penitentiary to begin sentences imposed yesterday by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston. Gaines pleaded guilty to an indictment for cutting with intent to wound and Hinkle to one for robbery.

Released today was Fes Hogg, 26, of 117½ South Franklin avenue, who served 50 days for assault and battery.

ACCUSED OF MANSLAUGHTER

COLUMBUS, O.—(AP)—Clarence W. Hannum, 46, of near Reynoldsburg, was charged with second degree manslaughter today in the traffic death of Miss Gladys Mae Smith of Washington.

will be made later today.

It was the GOP's red-haired national chairman, John D. M. Hamilton, who issued the challenge to the Democrats to re-nominate President Roosevelt. In a speech opening the committee's session, Hamilton asserted that only with Mr. Roosevelt again a candidate could there be a clear-cut issue for the voters next November.

Confident almost to the point of cockiness, Hamilton flatly predicted a Republican victory at the polls nine months hence and pictured the Democratic party as "so demoralized and embittered by internecine feuds that it cannot present a common fight front against us."

"We do not know who the candidate of the opposition will be," said Hamilton. "We can't select him, and their convention date, too.

"But if we had the power, the greatest service we could render this country would be to nominate as the Democratic candidate, Franklin D Roosevelt.

"Then we would have a clear-cut issue and once and for all we would have a showdown on the New Deal, Franklin Roosevelt and the third term—and we would finish off all three."

Hamilton's denunciation of the New Deal left nothing to the imagination. In a scathing attack, he declared that the American people would welcome a change in national leadership "after seven years of New Deal debt, demagoguery and defeatism."

Reviewing the 1932 Democratic platform which promised a 25 per cent reduction in federal spending, a sound currency and business free of government competition, Hamilton said:

"What a mockery the deeds of the last seven years have made of those words so solemnly uttered. Who, I ask again, this year will trust a party and a party leader who made such promises and then so wantonly and shamefully disregarded them?"

Timing of Jimmy's Suit Causes Speculation.

LOS ANGELES—(U.P.)—Friends of James Roosevelt wondered today if any political significance could be found in the timing of his divorce suit.

For some time they had been telling others that Roosevelt would seek a divorce from the former Betsey Cushing, daughter of the late Dr. Harvey Cushing, prominent brain specialist, when he could do so without embarrassing his father politically.

The suit was filed yesterday at a time when political quarters country-wide are wondering whether President Roosevelt will seek a third term. Could it mean, his friends asked, that Mr. Roosevelt had decided against running again?

Those who sought political significance were forced to recall that political considerations had not deterred two of the president's children from obtaining divorces. James Roosevelt said: "I have absolutely nothing to say."

He and his wife have been separated for 14 months.

Mrs. Roosevelt said in New York that she would answer his complaint, which charged desertion, and "myself file a decree of divorce." She said she expected to remain in the east, and that her husband had agreed she was to have custody of their children, Sara Delano, 7, and Kate, 4. They had been married eight years.

CONDUCTS EXAM FOR CITY JOBS

Civil Service Takes Steps to Set Up Eligible Lists; Tests March 29.

Competitive examinations for the purpose of establishing eligible lists from which policemen, firemen, draftsmen, rodmen and waterworks pumpmen may be selected, will be held March 29 at City hall, Atty. James V. Will, secretary of the civil service commission, announced today.

Applications for the examinations will be accepted at the office of the commission in the city building from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 7 p. m. to 9 p. m. Saturday, March 16, Will said.

The commission called for the examinations at its meeting last night after receiving requests from city officials for certifications for rodmen and water works pumpmen, two positions which are now held by provisional appointees.

Applicants for policemen must be between the ages of 25 and 40 years and at least five feet nine inches tall. Firemen must be between the ages of 22 and 35 years and five feet, six inches tall. The commission has not yet fixed an age limit on the other positions.

MINES, SUBS SINK VESSELS OFF BRITAIN

Renewed Sea Warfare Starts After Scandinavians Hit Attacks on Neutrals.

(By United Press)

LONDON—The sinking of three Danish ships in addition to the Italian freighter Giorgia Ohlsen in the last 24 hours was reported to the Danish legation today after Scandinavian newspapers had denounced German attacks on neutral shipping.

The Danish advices said that the Martin Goldschmidt of 2,095 tons; the Rhone of 1,064 tons and the Sleipner of 1,066 had been sunk in the intensified sea war.

British sources have denounced the enemy attacks on neutral vessels — designed to frighten shipping away from English waters—and have urged that neutral ships join British warship convoys.

The British have announced the sinking of at least six U-boats in the last week and disclosed today that the destroyer Antelope was the warship that sank two German submarines in one day.

The Danish legation advices said that the Rhone and the Sleipner were torpedoed off the east coast of Britain about midnight Thursday.

The Martin Goldschmidt sank Thursday in the North sea, but the cause was uncertain.

Freighter Hits Mine.

The Italian freighter Giorgia Ohlsen, 5,694 tons, struck a mine and sank off the east coast of Britain Wednesday.

The wreckage of the steamer drifted ashore on the east coast. Sixteen members of the crew were landed at a Scottish port last night. The ship carried a crew of 32 and it was feared that several were lost. The survivors said they had lost all of their belongings.

First indication of disaster came when one of the Giorgia Ohlsen's lifeboats was washed ashore.

CHAPTER XXVII.

Rene stirred on his bed of boughs, groaned a bit and then slowly raised himself on the elbow of his good arm

"Where's Bill?" he asked

"I don't know, Rene," Claire told him "I was just wondering myself. I just woke up now, expecting to see him where he was last night when I dropped off to sleep, sitting out there I suppose he's under a bush somewhere, getting caught up on his sleep, too Poor man, he's had less than either of us in these last few days"

"You don't suppose—anything's happened to him do you?" Rene's tone was casuel but Claire sensed a feeling of alarm back of his words.

"Of course not" she assured him with an enthusiasm she didn't feel herself After all there was no need of worrying Rene "How's the wound?"

"Oh, fine, fine But where can Bill be?"

"Now don't get yourself into a stew about him I'll go and see if I can find where he's sleeping Probably dead to the world, and I wouldn't blame him after what he's been through

Claire got slowly to her feet stretched and yawned and walked slowly down to the bank of the mountain stream She plunged her hands into the cold water and scrubbed her face vigorously The icy water was like an electric shock, but as she rubbed her cheeks and the blood rushed into them they suddenly began to tingle. Soon she was glowing and any remaining fog of sleep had vanished.

After she dried her face as best she could with her handkerchief, she started to look for Bill She called softly at first, and then raised her voice a bit but there was no answer She quickened her steps as she half ran from one clump of underbrush to another, any likely place where he might have found shelter for the night There was no sign of him

Satisfied at last that he was nowhere near the little clearing where they had camped, she turned and walked slowly back to the shelter where Rene was now sitting up. The girl carried a helmet filled with cold water

"Well, where is he?" the French officer demanded 'Did you find him?"

"No—he's not here I brought you some water Have a cold drink and then I'll wash your face for you That will wake you up"

"Where in the deuce do you suppose Bill is? You don't think ."

"Of course not" Claire interrupted, assuming a confident air she was far from feeling "He's out foraging again, of course. Looking for something for breakfast"

Rene's face, which had worn a worried frown, suddenly smoothed and wrinkled into an anticipatory grin.

I hope it's another partridge That was great, last night, except I could have eaten three or four of them myself"

"Don't worry Bill will come back with something"

Rene fished in the pocket of his leather jacket and produced a package of cigarets.

"I must have felt low yesterday. I'd forgotten I had these After Bill comes back and we have breakfast, think of how good a cigaret will taste! That mountain water certainly gave me an appetite."

Claire had finished bathing his face and was carefully removing the bandage from his shoulder He winced slightly as the last of it came free, and glanced curiously at the reddish wound edged with blue from the bruise of the bullet's impact

"How's it look to you?"

"Swell, Rene. I think you're going to get out of this now without any more infection That cognac Frau Weber gave us must have a powerful antiseptic power How do you feel—stronger?"

"Fit as a fiddle The sooner we get back to Paris, the better I'll like it I have a date with Maria tonight Do you think we'll make it?"

Claire was deftly fashioning a clean bandage from the remains of Rene's shirt, and finished it before she answered

'I'm afraid not—not tonight Maybe tomorrow night or the next one—if we're lucky"

"We've been fools for luck so far, so why shouldn't it hold out?"

"You're pretty fond of Maria, aren't you?" Claire asked, pulling his jacket back over the bandaged shoulder and buttoning it up about his throat "Have you known her long?"

"Oh, seven or eight months I should say. She's very fascinating — charming — lovely In fact, Claire, I'm madly in love with her Or had you guessed?"

"Well," she laughed, "I rather suspected it Are you- are you engaged?"

"As you would say in your very expressive language, you've got me there, pal. I don't know I consider myself engaged to her, but I don't know for sure how she feels about it I've been begging her to marry me for the last five months, but she keeps putting me off. What do you think of her?"

Claire turned her head away, afraid that the doubts she had about Maria Herczek might show in her eyes How could she tell this man who had saved her life, and Bill's too, that she suspected the women he loved was in the pay of the Nazis? She had nothing to back up her suspicions except intuition and the warning she thought she had read in "Z Y's" eyes when Maria was urging her to stay the night in her flat She knew, too, that Maria was a friend of the Rolands and knew now that George Roland was not the American he pretended to be but a secret agent of Germany A powerful figure in their espionage service in France

Rene had asked her a direct question, and she had to answer

"I think," she said, 'that Maria is very lovely I hope she is everything you think she is and that you will be very happy'

Rene nodded and then, as if tired from the exertion of talking, lay down on his bed of pine boughs

'I do hope' he sighed "that Bill brings back something good to eat. I'm starved!"

* * *

Where was Bill? What had happened to him? Had he wandered too far in his search for food and perhaps been recaptured? Claire was panic-stricken as she wondered what she would do alone, with the wounded Rene Just when her feelings were getting the best of her, she heard a soft call from the trees Then Bill came striding toward her, a bundle under one arm and two fair-sized fish secured by a forked stick thrust through their gills, in his other hand

"Meat on the table!" he laughed 'Aren't they beauties?"

He proudly exhibited his fish, which turned out to be trout, and tossed his bundle on the ground Hearing his voice, Rene sat up and was voluably congratulatory over the catch

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 16, 1940.

The Atlantic ocean may be a guarantee against European invasion—but the Indians doubt it.

It appears that John Barrymore isn't suffering from any ailment that couldn't have been cured a long time ago by a self-administered dose of common sense.

When Franklin D. finally gets ready to announce that he will not be a candidate for third term he is quite likely to encounter a "Who cares?" public attitude.

War In the Near East

AMBASSADOR JOE KENNEDY, home from London, is frankly pessimistic about peace prospects. He says he expects the European war to break out in earnest within two months.

From present indications the outbreak might come sooner. And there are new, surprising factors in the situation. Stagnation continues in the middle war zone, what vast armies of French and German troops face each other, but there is growing activity around the edges. The Russo-Finnish front is one edge of active combat at the top of Europe. Recent moves suggest that there will soon be another, no less spectacular and on a much broader scale, at the bottom of the continent where Russia touches Asia. And hostilities might start at any time in between these extremities, in the Balkans.

The situation in Asia Minor and thence south and eastward is especially interesting. Turkey, determined to protect the Dardanelles and her Black Sea and Caucasus borders, is now linked with Britain, France and the Arab nations for the general defense of the Near East. Friendly Iraq and Iran are determined to safeguard their independence. France is set to protect Syria. Britain guards Egypt, the Suez Canal and Afghanistan, her routes to India.

They make a powerful group of Allies, who may strike across the northern border to cripple Russia by taking her oil fields around Baku on the Caspian sea. They may seize naval control of the Black Sea to checkmate Russia and protect the Balkans by water. It looks like a bold plan to stop the Russian giant before he goes any farther, and at the time push the encirclement of Germany.

Thoughts of Confucius Revived

CHEER UP, the "Confucius say" epidemic will probably wear out quite soon—as each of the quips requires some thinking and addicts to that sort of thing don't bother to think much. It seems a pity, however, that a man so good and great as Confucius should become a peg on which to hang cheap jests or crude vulgarities. Yet there may be some benefit. Many people may have their interest aroused enough to learn something about Kung Ku Tze, as the Chinese call him, and acquire some of his wisdom.

He is both ancient and modern, lofty and practical, and well worth getting acquainted with, even if he lacked the talent for wisecracking currently attributed to him. Collections of his authentic sayings are easily found in the libraries and book stores.

A Chinese-American, while deprecating the flippant use of the sage's name, takes this view of the matter. "More people will become curious about who Confucius really was, and what he actually taught," he says, "and that way may come to know him. That would be good.

"We Chinese were taught that Confucius was the greatest of all teachers. He appeared toward the end of China's most advanced period of civilization. His words were given to 72 disciples who were governors and teachers in the provinces.

"The sayings of Confucius are full of wisdom — wisdom that has lived for 2,500 years. And naturally we know that whatever is said now will not affect either the words or the truths he taught."

Expanded Field For Research

THIS appears to be the most researching country there ever was in the history of the world, except possibly Germany. A conference board report says:

"Three out of four corporations now carry on research in order to provide statistical information for their own officers and stockholders, for trade associations, for private research organizations, and for various governmental bureaus.

"Governmental interest in the activities of business has grown so rapidly in recent years that the average company prepares more special reports for state and federal bureaus than it does for its own trade association. Three-fifths of the companies send special detailed reports to governmental agencies."

Nearly half of the companies carrying on research compile periodic reports on the outlook for their industry, and almost as many compile data on the prospects of business in general.

Add to all this the research of special private agencies and of governmental bodies, in almost countless fields, and then add all the research being done in the colleges for various purposes, and surely it makes a body of work and cost such as the world never saw before.

Self-Lighting Highways

PEOPLE interested in traffic safety, or in invention for its own sake, will take notice of a "three-purpose billboard" originating in Minneapolis. It automatically displays a roadside advertisement, warns the driver that he is approaching an intersection and tells him how fast he is driving, if it's thirty miles an hour or more.

This is done mainly with magnets buried in the road, which automatically turn on the illumination, compute the speed and flash the speed warning.

It follows that if this kind of thing can be done for business purposes, it can also be done without commercialism, as a public service to motorists. Not only could lights be made to flash out automatically at any crossing or danger point, but highways could be illuminated by a "ripple" system, the lights automatically flashing on to light up the road for a few hundred feet ahead of the driver and turning off as he passed.

India and Britain

MR. GANDHI'S latest statement is clear that India would probably be glad to stay within the British Empire and to co-operate with the other members of that family if only it were given the freedom to do so by its own decision.

Great Britain, on the other hand, would be glad to give India the freedom of complete dominion status if it could just choose the proper time itself.

The two opposing viewpoints seem irreconcilable. Their goals are not. It is a pity that Great Britain cannot say to India, "You are free" and be immediately rewarded by India's replying, "We are your friend. What can we do to help you now?"

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK — There are some things at which even a modern young Ann Rutledge must demur, and to pretty Mary Howard such a moment came at 4:45 p. m. yesterday while her mother poured tea for reporters and photographers in their suite at the Sherry-Netherland.

All afternoon this wide-eyed Oklahoma girl who plays Ann Rutledge in "Abe Lincoln in Illinois" had swapped tidbits with the inquiring reporters. Dutifully she had posed in a dozen ways for the relentless cameramen—speaking into a telephone, unpacking her trunk, combing her chestnut hair at her mirror. She was a willing and a striking subject in her sky blue basket-weave wool housecoat which was high at the throat with gold beaded sprays at the shoulders and the waist. She had little quilted sky-blue slippers to match.

She was about to say "Haven't you run out of flashlight bulbs yet?" when he said:

"Now sit in this chair and pull your skirts up above your knees."

* * *

MARY HOWARD is a dancer and an actress and she doesn't mind showing her knees when there is a reasonable excuse. But she was thinking fast. "This is a long, high-at-the-throat housecoat. It isn't the sort of thing that goes well with leg art. Unless a leg picture is made at just the right angle it is apt to look funny"

So she hesitated just a moment, looking at the photographer, and he, seeing this hesitation and misinterpreting it, was unaccountably confused for a moment. "Isn't it all right?" he asked.

"It isn't that," said Mary Howard. "I was just wondering what Abe Lincoln would think of Ann Rutledge if he knew she went in for leg art."

Well, that made everything pretty swell. She sat in the chair and he got his picture, and then Mary Howard, who is frequently mistaken for Will Rogers' daughter, was telling about the fun they had in Tennessee when the Lincoln picture had its premiere there, and about the fun they had in Washington where she met FDR and also a policeman named Robert E. Lee, and about coming to New York and just missing the fun at Fefe's Monte Carlo where Elaine ("All I want is 24 hours of bliss, Honey") Barrie kidnaped John Barrymore who had just opened on Broadway in "My Dear Children."

SHE told about going to a dance at the Waldorf and seeing Hal LeRoy, the dancer, for the first time in years. She was so glad to see him that before she realized it was running toward him saying, "Hal, look, don't you remember me!" Then she was suddenly embarrassed, because everybody had stopped to look at her, and she wasn't sure LeRoy would remember her. But that lasted only a second because Hal LeRoy grabbed her and said, "Why, honey, how could I forget you. You were my first girl."

The world is a tasty, juicy pineapple when you are on the way up, and Mary Howard is learning this now. She was in the Follies at 15, and she danced a little, and she went to Hollywood where after a long time she was given a few parts in a few scattered pictures. But now, well, take a look at her dancing eyes. As you know, your eyes never dance unless your heart is dancing too.

Health And Diet

Sun Is Nature's Spring Tonic.

—By DR. CLENDENING

THE HUMAN flower, of all flowers, is most in need of the sun." This was the categorical statement of the French historian, Michelet.

We hope that all the readers of this column have embraced as many opportunities as possible to take their place in the sun in the dark days that we have been experiencing; especially that the babies and children have had the opportunity of doing so. "Sky-shine," even on dark, smoky days, is one-fourth as effective as sunshine.

But the dark days are almost over. The smokefall of our winters reaches its peak about January 15. The pollution of the air with smoke in American cities has a direct influence on the amount of sunshine we get, there being twice as much in December as in July. Even rain and snow do not decrease it.

Begins to Wear Off.

But in February the smokefall begins to wear off and if you have had no chance before, get the baby and the children out in the sun for an anti-rachitic dose of energy. "Anti-rachitic" means the prevention of rickets.

Rickets is a disease of darkness. Infants under six months of age are most susceptible to it. It appears with its heaviest incidence in the early spring months after the deprivation of sunlight of the short, dark, smoky days.

The sunlight acts on the infant's skin as it acts on the green leaf of a plant. It produces vitamin D, which prevents rickets.

Rickets is a disease of the bones, due to lack of sufficient lime and phosphorus, the building blocks of the bones, which make them strong and sturdy. Without calcium deposits they become soft and are liable to deformity—knock-knees, bow-legs, bent ribs, twisted arms. There may be plenty of calcium in the diet, but without vitamin D to fix it in the bones, it is not utilized.

Supplied By Fish Oil.

Vitamin D can be supplied in the diet in the form of cod-liver oil or halibut liver oil. I am asked what form of cod-liver oil I recommend; it makes no difference so long as the oil used measures up to U. S. Pharmacopoeia standards and has the proper number of vitamin D units

Rickets in less severe forms causes irritability in the infant, soreness manifested when it is picked up, head sweating, a row of enlargements at the junction of the bony and cartilage ribs, the rachitic rosary, a tendency for the head to assume a square shape and staring eyes. When the baby has any of these signs, it means the need for sunshine and plenty of it. No outside vitamin D is quite as good as the baby's own manufactured product.

But adults need sunshine, too. the sun is the great source of energy of the world. Systematic exposure to the sun causes an increase in well-being and strength. The blood grows richer, the tone of the muscles better. It is the real spring tonic.

Listen, World!

The Mechanics of Courage.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

LIFE became a game in which my hand held no trumps and I knew it, but I didn't throw my cards on the table. I stuck it out."

The woman who wrote those words wasn't boasting. Nor was she publicly "picking the scab" of her grief, as so many modern exhibitionists delight in doing. She was simply trying to write an honest, practical working manual for those who, like herself, had lost their way in the dark. And if you've ever gone through a blackout or are in one now, you'll bless her for this brief personal record which she calls "I BEGAN AGAIN." (Whittlesey House, Publishers.)

The blackout which fell on Alice Bretz was literal . . . a complete and lasting blindness which came without warning and was swiftly followed by the death of the husband she adored, the loss of her home, the necessity of living in diminished quarters without voice to hear or hand to help.

How could she face it? How can anyone win with a trumpless hand? There's many a desperate mortal asking that today and the book-shops are filled with beguiling answers. But Alice Bretz wasn't beguiled. She knew that the only answer for bankruptcy such as hers lay in herself . . . in her own honesty, bravery, humor and common sense.

She didn't fool herself for a second—not even during the initial nightmare when her very reason shook. She didn't believe or pretend to believe any of the old hokum, such as "Time will cure the hurt" . . . "He'll come back to you" . . . "Blindness has its wonderful compensations" . . . "Someday you'll see that this was all for your own good . . . understand why God had to punish you so."

From the first, she determined to see things as they were and play the game accordingly. She wouldn't lie or evade or pretend. She wouldn't accept pity or indulge in it. She wouldn't run away from life or use her grief as a hide-out from reality. The old life would never come back. Never again would she see April dancing down the lane. Or ever feel her husband's hand upon her own again. That dear rapture was over. These things must be faced. She might have no trumps but she wasn't a quitter. She would take life as it came—on the chin—AND THAT CHIN SHOULD BE UP.

So, slowly—step by stumbling step, thought by quivering thought—Alice Bretz "began again." Not feeling, at first. Not daring to feel or analyze—or ask the reason why. Just making the motions. Doing whatever came next. Learning to make a bed . . . dust a table . . . open a door. And to do it all with a cheerfulness that was more than lip deep.

"I had to live with myself," she wrote. "I couldn't stand living with a whiner or a grouch, that was definite. All right then, I must smile and again find a song in my heart."

Just going on, making the motions. Doing whatever came next. Studying and applying the MECHANICS OF COURAGE. Does it all seem very matter-of-fact? Thank heaven, it is! We need more matter-of-fact bravery . . . definite rules we can grip as we feel our way through the dark. TOO MANY LIVES HAVE BEEN WASTED. TOO MANY CHARACTERS FOREVER MIRED IN THE QUICKSAND OF SENTIMENTAL SLUSH. Here's one woman, praise be, who dared SEE STRAIGHT with her soul, even though sickness had darkened her eyes. And found the song she wanted. Better medicine for a hurt heart I've never seen than Alice Bretz "I BEGIN AGAIN."

WASHINGTON Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON—Social security board insiders are tearing their hair over the latest communique which John J. Corson, vivacious young head of the board's old-age insurance bureau, has issued on those dynamite-loaded "John Doe" records they have been trying to clean up.

It is no secret that Corson's boss, Paul V. McNutt, presidential-minded head of the federal security agency, has been raising the roof since the startling discovery last summer of millions of unidentifiable old-age pension accounts in SSB files. Chairman Arthur J. Altmeyer and Corson were called on the carpet and told to clean up the mess by January 1.

Since then Corson has issued several rosy bulletins to regional directors on the "progress" being made. His latest is a confidential report in which he proudly announces that the "John Doe" problem has been licked.

"It constituted only an historical obstacle which we overcome with unexpected success," Corson proclaims.

Unfortunately, Corson had to produce some figures, and these tell a much different story. They show that "John Doe" items still on SSB books number 7,357,538, and represent $472,270,463.59 in taxes collected on wages of persons now unknown or otherwise ineligible for pensions—all because of inaccurate records.

In other words, Corson has the problem licked (he says) even though a matter of 7,357,538 items and almost half a billion in cold cash still are unaccounted for. Upshot of it will be that numerous persons over 65 won't share in pensions this year.

Christian Front.

WASHINGTON higher-ups, including the White House, are keeping their eyes peeled on the way U. S. District Attorney Harold Kennedy of Brooklyn handles the prosecution of the case against the Christian Front.

Kennedy has been fussing about the fact that the seventeen who plotted against the United States only had bombs made inside of tin cans, which he doesn't seem to think were potent enough.

Note—G-Boss J. Edgar Hoover has a lot of dynamite which he isn't showing yet about the Christian Front; also quite a bit on Father Coughlin's interest in the Front. One significant letter is to Coughlin from Joseph Cassidy, fuehrer of the Front, in which he tells the radio priest about his "sports club."

"Mr. Jones."

A TALL, distinguished, white-haired gentleman approached a doorkeeper on the Democratic side of the house of representatives.

"I'd like to see Mr. Rayburn," he said modestly.

"Who shall I say is calling?"

"My name's Jones."

The doorman reflected briefly. There are many Joneses, and majority leader Sam Rayburn of Texas is a busy man. He dislikes to be called from the floor except on urgent business.

"What's the first name, please?"

"Jesse Jones, administrator of the Federal Loan Agency."

As Maine Goes.

IT IS NOW six months before the Maine election and revival of the famous political slogan, "As Maine goes so goes the nation." But even this far in advance it can be predicted that Maine will go overwhelmingly Republican in September.

Part of this will be through default. So far, the Democrats have put no candidate in the race for senator against Congressman Ralph Brewster.

Furthermore, the Democratic candidate for governor is Fulton Redmond, the employe of Portland newspaper publisher Guy Gannett, who has been a member of the Republican national committee, and whose wife has been a Republican national committeewoman.

So it looks as if the Republicans will have a walk-away in September.

Freddy Hale.

CONGRESSMAN BREWSTER, who will be elected to the senate almost by default, will inherit the shoes of the famous Senator "Freddy" Hale of Maine. Freddy is never heard around the senate, and rarely seen. Yet his departure from the senate—he plans to retire this year—will make history.

It will end the longest senatorial reign of one family in the annals of congress. Hale's father and grandfather also were senators, their careers dating back 72 years, almost continuously since before the Civil war.

* * *

Secretary of War.

SECRETARY of War Woodring went out to St. Louis to deliver an address before the Advertising club. Before he was called upon to speak, however, he found himself the object of satirical ribbing, in the Gridiron club manner.

The skit showed him in his office, with newsmen applying to him for information. Question after question was put to him, but he knew none of the answers. Up popped Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, who knew all the answers and supplied them readily.

After the ribbing, the St. Louis Advertisers called upon Woodring to speak for himself.

Political-Go-Round.

AL SMITH is telling intimates he plans a book on his political experiences, including a prize story on how he got FDR on the 1920 Democratic ticket as vice presidential candidate, despite the opposition of Tammany Boss Charlie Murphy. . . . Rotund Senator H. Styles Bridges, New Hampshire's zealous G. O. P. white hope, is a strong utility spokesman. But while campaigning in Oregon recently he maintained discreet silence regarding Bonneville and Grand Coulee power projects. . . . There were 1313 diners at the recent Kansas Day banquet in Topeka addressed by House Republican Floor Leader Joe Martin. The number 13 brought good luck to Joe, however. Afterward a Taft supporter called from San Francisco to say that he was junking 200 letters boosting the Ohio senator and instead, would send out new ones for Martin.

"Pork Barrel."

CAPITOL HILL politics are thinking of awarding former Representative Anthony A. Fleger of Ohio a blue ribbon for the most concrete description of the "pork barrel" so far given by anyone.

Fleger, Democratic nominee in a special election to fill the vacancy created by the death of Representative Chester Bolton of Ohio, recently introduced able, tobacco-chewing Robert T. Secrest, of Ohio to a Townsendite rally in Cleveland.

Praising Secrest's efforts in getting the government to finance a big conservation project in the Muskingum Valley, Fleger remarked:

"When you get a congressman to bring in improvements like that and then see that you don't have to pay for them—boy! You've got a real congressman."

About 'Tarnation'

(A FARMER'S DIARY)

—By CALVIN A. BYERS

NEVER WORRY, time and the course of nature will clear up a lot of things," my old uncle used to say. Tarnation, the turkan is an example.

A turkan, in case you do not know, is a breed of poultry. The name is a combination, doubtless, of turkey and chicken. The fowls have long turkey-like necks on which no feathers grow, and a patch of feathers worn atop their heads gives them a more incongruous look than a bareheaded schoolboy in earmuffs.

Last spring a poultry raiser told me that turkans are delicious eating, having bigger frames and finer-tasting meat than average chickens. Accordingly I went to a farmer who had some of those peculiar birds and bought eggs for hatching. When my chicks came off, three turkans were among them—hideous, raw-necked little wretches, two of which quickly died. The one that survived came through flood and drought and heat with flying colors.

She had a propensity for cropping up whenever someone saw my hens for the first time. Invariably one glimpse of this turkan brought an exclamation from the onlooker: "Oh, what happened to that one, the poor thing?"

My explanation that the odd creature was in perfect health, and better eating than most, brought only a pitying look for both of us, and on one occasion the remark, "Yes? Well, she looks like tarnation now don't she?" My young daughter heard this last remark and promptly dubbed the hen Tarnation, with a capital T.

All our big roosters have been eaten or sold. The time was come to taste the turkan meat. We decided—my wife and I—to roast the ugly bird for Sunday dinner.

On Saturday it rained. The children spent the whole day at the barn. They played Indian upon the big barn floor. They fed and talked to the tame white hens and carried in armfuls of straw from the stack behind the barn to make nests for their pets in odd places. Every few minutes a small scout came running with an egg or two that had rewarded their efforts at co-operation.

The wild-eyed turkan saw a fresh bunch of straw in a high rack and it tempted her. She flew up and dug herself in, with many a squirm and scratch. She thrust her long red neck out and laid straight every crooked straw. Her white topknot almost disappeared within the nest she had made.

Watching from a distance our young daughter, whose affection for animals takes in everything that breathes, saw Billy the black goat thrust his nose up toward where she sat and received a vicious peck right where it counted. Billy drew back, shook his horny head and bleated plaintively.

Presently, through the rain, the young girl came running in. A burlap sack, hastily thrown over her head, umbrella-wise, sheltered something that gave off a peculiar satisfied throaty sound. A scrawny red neck topped by beady eye and topknot of white feathers thrust itself out and winked. My daughter laid in my hand a small brown egg, still warm.

"Look at her, Daddy! Look at Tarnation, she laid it! Isn't she cute? Isn't she just the cutest, ugliest thing that ever happened? You just can't kill the hen that lays the eggs, now Daddy can you?"

I wonder what turkan tastes like.

Informally Speaking...

By MARIANNE

ONCE again news of Mansfield collegians is proving the fact that they're campus leaders at their respective schools. . . . Marguerite Miller and Marlene Wierman are heading the parade today. . . . This is Marguerite's first year at Ohio university in Athens, but nevertheless she has been assigned to an important role in the coming University Theater production. . . . Dr. Robert Gates Dawes, director of the theater, named Marguerite for her part in the play, "The Warrior's Husband," by Julian Thompson—already in rehearsal, the performance will be given on March 6 and 7. . . . Marguerite, you know, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otis Miller, and she always has been greatly interested in public speaking and dramatics.

When the a cappella choir of Ohio Northern university begins its concert tour of the state Sunday, a Mansfield girl, Marlene Wierman, will be a member of the group. . . . The vested choir, consisting of 60 trained voices, under the direction of Haydn Owens, has gained a fine reputation in the middle west for their interpretation of sacred and classical music. . . . It will present a series of programs in communities throughout Ohio, beginning at Spencerville on Sunday. . . . Marlene, whose parents are Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Wierman, is a sophomore in the college of liberal arts at the university.

Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Hecht, sr., returned home recently from St. Petersburg, Fla. . . . Unfortunately, Mr. Hecht was taken ill with bronchial pneumonia while there, and consequently was confined to the hospital for several weeks. . . . Mr. Hecht's wife and his daughter, Mrs. C. J. Botte, were with him during the illness and accompanied him back to Mansfield—Mrs. Botte now has returned to her home in Columbus.

SPEAKING of Florida, some more fortunate Mansfielders have gone down to that state . . . Mr. and Mrs. Leland Stephan and their son, Dickie, and Mr. and Mrs. George Rowntree left this week for Miami, where they will vacation for the next month

Her many Mansfield friends will be pleased to learn that Mrs. Ivan Bettiker is in town, visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. William L. Kaufman. . . . Mrs. Bettiker, the former Mary Lou Kaufman, and her husband reside in Charleston, W. V. . . . Incidentally, Mr. Bettiker is now on a business trip such as we'd all enjoy taking—he's gone to Florida and Cuba for the advertising company with which he's affiliated.

MRS. GEORGE PARK was visiting here while her husband was on a trip for the General Electric company recently. . . . You probably remember Mrs. Park better as Irene Holcombe She returned to Bridgeport, Conn., yesterday after spending several days with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. Merton Holcombe

FOR YOUR CALENDAR: You'd better plan now to attend the Lenten Vesper hour at St. Luke's Lutheran church Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock. . . . Florence MacDonald is presenting some of her pupils then, singing "The Seven Last Words" by Mercadante—this is short, but very beautiful music and never has been sung in the city before. . . . Two solo numbers will be presented during the afternoon too.

'AMERICAN OUTLOOK' GIVEN AT THEATER

IN AN ATTEMPT to project a ray of hope into the world outlook today James T. Williams, jr., authority on national and foreign affairs, addressed the Mansfield Federation of Women on "Washington and The World Today From an American Point of View." During the lecture, which was given at 11 a. m. yesterday at the Ohio theater, Williams told his audience what Washington is doing to keep the United States at peace.

Among the peaceful measures he mentioned were the following of the traditional foreign policy, providing for strengthening of armed forces, speeding up co-operation with the South American countries to present a united front, standing for principals of international law, the sanctity of treaties, and the integrity of the pledged word, and the effort to make it possible for economic life to resume normal proportions.

Speaking informally Williams assured his audience that the men on Capitol Hill are doing their best to keep us from becoming involved in another world conflict, and he attributes much of the effort being made now to Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

The speaker drew freely from history, great men, and the current picture to portray a hopeful outlook as to the possibilities of a re-organized world.

After the lecture luncheon was served at the Women's Club Mrs Lester Redding, Federation president, introduced Mr. Williams who has had a wide background of editorial and reportorial experience in Washington, D. C., and other cities to fit him for his political lectures.

The next meeting will be another lecture-luncheon March 5 with Dr. James Marshall speaking on "Modern Australia" at 11 a. m.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, February 17.

The prospect for fulfilled ambitions, of a business, financial and personal nature, is presaged by the planetary configurations. Financial promise is encouraged, with the support of those in places of influence and prestige. There is a menace of danger of loss with papers, writings and documents. There is a sign of courtship or matrimony for the eligible. Much conviviality, with pleasant friendship, is emphasized.

Those whose birthday it is are assured of a progressive, prosperous and happy year, with probably courtship or marriage. There should be much pleasant friendliness in both home and business relations. Safeguard documents against loss

A child born on this day may be alert and versatile, and have fine creative talents and originality. But it may be changeable and lacking in steadiness.

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"I do not know just where she is," she said. "She was here just a minute or two ago, saying that you had sent for her. But I asked her would she please go away for a little while. You see, as Mr. Veritzen has said, he is withholding his decision concerning me until he has heard me play; everything depends upon how I perform. And naturally I am exceedingly nervous about the result. Therefore—if you will pardon me—I would like to play first for him alone."

"But, surely, Mrs. Graham," he began, but I put up my hand in authoritative protest.

"Don't take me into account at all," I said firmly. "I understand perfectly Olina's feeling. She would not do herself justice if anyone beside you, her judge in this matter, were present."

I moved toward the door, unheeding Philip Veritzen's uncertain "But, I must—"

"Mary and I will be in the living room," I said at the door, "awaiting your pleasure." I could not forbear that little ironic dig. "When you are ready for us, Olina, will you please come over and tell us so?"

"Thank you," she said. "As soon as Mr. Veritzen gives the word, I will come for you."

"We shall be ready," I answered, and on that assurance closed the door behind me, and went to the living room where I found Mary. As I came into the room and sat down, she stopped, gave me a searching look, and then laughed shortly.

" 'Et tu Brute'," she quoted, "only I mean that in reverse order. You haven't come to slay me, but to share my exile. She handed you a rain check, too, didn't she, or am I mistaken?"

"No, you are perfectly correct," I told her smiling. "She was afraid anyone else around would make her nervous while she played for your father-in-law. It's the artistic temperament, I suppose."

"She'd better look out," Mary prophesied darkly, "or my revered papa-in-law will take that artistic temperament out of her with the end of a bedslat. From what I've observed of the old boy, I don't believe anybody in the world besides himself has any chance of working an artistic temperament, an inflated ego or any other privileges in his vicinity. He reserves all that for himself. What do you think?"

"I think your conjecture is eminently correct," I told her laughing. "But suppose you stop pacing up and down, and sit down quietly until they send for us. You're only wearing yourself out, and you're going to need every bit of your nervous energy in the next few hours."

She threw herself into a chair near me and cocked a defiantly humorous eye at me.

"I suppose you mean I'm indulging in artistic temperament myself," she said.

"Sometime," she predicted viciously, "I'm going to grab that Olina gal by her back hair and shake her till her teeth rattle. Then my artistic temperament will be sated, and hers will be jolted so that she may be quite human for a few hours anyway."

I put up an admonitory hand for I had heard the library door open.

"Hush!" I whispered. "Here she comes."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

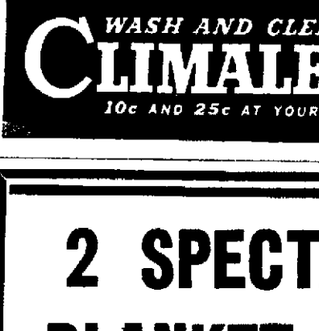
"The Authority on Authorities"

PSYCHICS STILL WORK

Plenty of fine players have quit making psychic bids, except upon the rarest occasions, because it is pretty well established that psychics do not often pay. But when an ultra-conservative bidder springs one in a well-chosen spot, the results may be startingly favorable. His opponents are unlikely to suspect him, and so may let him get away with something. Be it emphatically understood that the bridge player without a certain amount of suspicion in his soul at all times is liable to occasional suffering at the hands of a tricky sortie.



(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

In a keen rubber game where this deal bobbed up, North was considered by far the most conservative member of the foursome. Nobody had heard of his making a psychic bid in a year or more. So when he made a dealer bid of 1-Heart, nobody suspected him. Of course, he was taking a risk of finding his partner with a fair hand and a heart fit, but luck was with him.

South answered the psychic with 1-Spade and West doubled. East responded with 2-Clubs. Later he said he did not like to bid 2-Hearts, and thus disclose to North and South how their suit was bunched against them. His club call was due merely to his inability to find any other response, since he didn't suspect North of psyching.

After South rebid at 2-Spades, West bid 3-Clubs. North, to continue the illusion of holding something, made a risky second bid of 3-Spades. West doubled this, then led the club A. As a consequence, South made his contract, losing only one trick in clubs, one in spades and two in diamonds, on a deal which could produce 5-Hearts for the vulnerable opponents.

Tomorrow's Problem.

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

If North bids 1-Diamond on this deal, South 2-No Trumps and West 3-Hearts, what should North do?

tary to the National Democratic Congressional committee of Washington represented him. Ashbrook spoke in Mt. Vernon Wednesday night. McGregor, however, did appear here.

Ashbrook, in his Coshocton talk, said that McGregor was opposed to the calling of a special election to fill a vacancy in the 22nd congressional district last fall because it meant "unnecessary expense." But "promptly" forgot about "economy and unnecessary expense" when a vacancy occurred in the 17th district where he was already campaigning as a candidate.

Veterans, Newcomers Have Leading Parts in Players' 'Petrified Forest.'

Rehearsals are underway for the first presentation of the season for the Community Players, which will be Robert Sherwood's "The Petrified Forest." It will be staged March 5 at Senior High school.

The cast is a balance between seasoned players and new faces. The four principal roles will be in the hands of experienced players. The play was a stage and screen vehicle for Leslie Howard and Humphrey Bogart.

Ben Goodenough, assistant director of the Players, will have the Howard role of Alan Squier, the man whose acceptance of an inevitable death is the keynote of the drama.

Ruhland Isaly will be seen in the Bogart role of the silent killer, Duke Mantee, while Miss Kathleen Sturges will play Gabby, which Bette Davis did on the screen. Paul Bell is entrusted with the important role of old Gramp

Other players are Richard Grudier, Harold McCuen, Robert Miller, John McCann, Betty Osbun, James Morgan, Burr Wade, Mable Owen Ward, Ferd Loykowich, Robert Rhoads, Albert Jarvis, Robert Lee and Richard Gorden. Five minor roles are still uncast.

They All Missed on 'Codicil'

Facing a field of 18 contestants in the third and final elimination of the annual spelling bee at St. Peter's High school yesterday afternoon, Mary Vogel, a senior, 97 Wood street, (seated) survived all other contestants by successfully spelling 'resiliency.'

Her nearest competitors were Esther Cappadonna, 15 Harker street, (left) and Catherine Easling 42 Mendota street, (right) who finished in second and third places respectively. Both girls are also seniors.

"All three of us were spelled down on 'codicil'," Miss Vogel said; the trio was then permitted to return to the contest and Miss Vogel became the winner. Gold, silver, and bronze medals were awarded. The contest was open to all St. Peter's High school students. First and second eliminations were held last Friday and Tuesday

EAGLE RANK CONFERRED ON 3 SCOUTS AT AREA HONOR COURT

The highest rank in scouting, that of Eagle Scout, was conferred on three Shelby Boy Scouts at an area court of honor last night in the lodge room at the Elks home.

Those who received the rank are Hal Lewis, Roger Pfahler and Fred Garvin, all members of troop No. 3 at Shelby.

In addition to making the Eagle awards, 11 scouts were advanced to the Star rank, 12 to the rank of Life scout, one boy received the Eagle palm, and a five-year veteran pin was presented one Mansfield scouter.

Tom Sutter, a Shelby Eagle scout, was awarded the Silver-Gold Eagle palm combination for earning 20 additional merit badges over the 21 required to be advanced to the Eagle rank, and Edwin Stiffler of Mansfield was presented with the five-year veteran badge for five years of service in scouting.

The Star rank was conferred on Frank Miller, Calvin Bronson, Billy Gandert, Paul Rondell and Andy Lamoreux of Mansfield; Donald Cline, James Herbert, Dean Johnson and Kenneth Troxell of Shelby; Albert Remy of Crestline, and Jack Conners of Bellville.

Scouts to receive their Life rank are Bill Zimmerman, David Weimer, Joseph Hewston and Larry Bergstrom of Mansfield; Eugene Keller, Dean Stroup, Lee Smith, Raymon Zeiters, David Lewis and Kenneth Hageman of Shelby, and William Ritchie and William Wickline of Lexington.

in the main positions, and the weapons chiefly used by the Finns were anti-tank guns, machine guns and the well-known Finnish machine pistol, with the ugly little four-inch hunting knives, the pukkas, in reserve for close fighting.

There was a growing impression that the next few days would tell the story of the Mannerheim line fight. Despite the persistence of the Russian attack, despite the Finnish withdrawal, despite the overwhelming numerical and material superiority of the Russians, neutral military experts here expressed belief that the Russian attacks were neither as well paced nor as intensive as they were several days ago.

Russia Claims Gains at Karelian Isthmus.

MOSCOW —(AP)— Russia's vast military machine was reported in a Red army communique today to be smashing its way along the Karelian Isthmus toward Kamara, 15 miles from Viipuri, having captured 53 more Finnish "defensive fortifications."

"The enemy is retreating to the rear, abandoning arms and war materials and suffering grave losses," the Russians claim.

Seizure of the 53 fortifications was the largest claim made by the Russians since the war started. It brought to 153 the number of such fortifications the Soviet has reported captured in the 15-day Isthmus drive.

Kamara is four miles north of Summa, scene of the heaviest fighting since the war started. The drive toward Kamara indicated the Russians were trying to outflank the Finns at Summa.

Since Feb. 8 Russian communiques have told of repeated captures of Finnish outposts as the Red army machine apparently gathered momentum and bit deeper into the Mannerheim line.

Until a week ago Soviet communiques at the most reported only isolated local actions.

The Red army also was active in the air.

"Soviet aviation successfully raided enemy troops and military objectives," the communique said. "Six enemy airplanes were brought down in air combats."

Sweden Turns Down Finn Appeals for Troops.

STOCKHOLM — (AP) — Premier Per Albin Hansson declared today that a request by Finland for "transport of Swedish military groups to Finland" had been declined on the ground that Sweden's position in regard to assisting her neighbors was unchanged.

Hansson's statement, contained in a communique, was occasioned by reports in the Stockholm press that Finnish government leaders had informed Sweden they must have more help or face the necessity of "concluding peace with the Soviet in a manner greatly concerning Sweden."

The communique said:

"On various occasions the Swedish government has entertained from the Finnish government proposals concerning deliveries of necessities. These proposals generally could be filled. The question of giving injured and invalided care in Sweden also was discussed, as well as sending civil workers from Sweden to Finland.

"Steps were taken in these respects.

"During a visit in Stockholm, members of the Finnish government then took up the question of personal military assistance. Only last Tuesday the Finnish foreign minister had talks about this matter with the Swedish prime minister, the foreign minister and the minister of defense.

"On this occasion the transport of Swedish military troops was requested. From the Swedish side the matter was referred to the enunciated Swedish principles governing assistance to Finland as declared in the speech of the Swedish prime minister in the Swedish riksdag Feb. 17 and which were generally accepted.

"There has been no change in this position."

In the speech mentioned Hansson declared that Sweden would give Finland all material and humanitarian help possible, but that her efforts would be limited to such assistance.

lumbus 19 above and Cincinnati, 14 above.

Another snowstorm was reported on its way up the Atlantic coast to plague New York and the New England states which are digging out of one of the heaviest snowfalls in recent years.

Highways in New England were still blocked today by drifts as much as 15 feet deep and at least 70 persons were reported dead as a direct result of the storm. In New York City alone five persons died from exertion while shoveling snow.

The deep snow threatened New York's milk supply as trucks were unable to reach the city from upstate producing districts. Because of the city's nearly depleted water reservoirs, Mayor F. H. LaGuardia refused to sanction the use of water for flushing snow from the sidewalks.

Train and bus service was being restored today in the stricken areas and schools were re-opened in many sections as snow plows pushed through the drifts to clear highways.

LIBRARY ADDS ENGLISH NOVELS AND MYSTERIES

American Tradition, Discussion of Way Out of War Lead Non-Fiction Titles.

Three novels with English backgrounds and characters, and two murder mysteries are on the list of new fiction at the Public library this week.

LOVE IN THE SUN by Leo Walmsley is the story of a man and his wife who arrive nearly penniless on a bleak stretch of the Cornish coast, determined to find a haven there. They rent a cheap shack and make a home of it, eking out a scanty living from the sea and land. The tale is simply told, making of the constant struggle a noble, dignified achievement of contentment.

WORLD WITHIN THESE WALLS by Diana Patrick is another charming English story, with its setting in Yorkshire and later in London. The Markham family, Lewis and Julia and their daughters, Dessa and Laura, struggle against poverty as the girls grow up, sharing good books and enjoying good friends.

APPOINTMENT WITH DEATH by Pamela Frankau is a new novel by the daughter of Gilbert Frankau. Delightful English comedy, the book adds the entertaining features of satire and mystery.

Other Fiction: SWEET GRASS, by Bower; TOWN CRIED MURDER, Ford; CRYING SISTERS, Seeley; WINTER MURDER CASE, by Van Dine.

Non-Fiction.

THE LIVING TRADITION by Simeon Strunsky discusses change and America. It points out the "persistent factors of American life operating beneath the surface of change," as that change is evident in the contrast between the America of 1776 and the America of 1939. A journalist, the author presents his observations and reflections since 1929, showing the things that have welded our nation together.

1940 by John Franklin Carter, whose pen name is Jay Franklin, contains a political prophecy about this year's presidential campaign and its influence on our whole country. The author is a staunch ally of Roosevelt even while he criticizes the President's methods.

THE WAY OUT OF WAR by Caesar Saerchinger is another book published in the series called THE PEOPLES LIBRARY. This former newspaper correspondent, pictures clearly the economic difficulties which bring war in Europe and refers to the Van Zeeland report as part of a solution which could bring peaceful change in Europe.

SABER-TOOTH CURRICULUM . . . by Harold Benjamin is a very humorous satire on the evolution of education among the earliest human beings.

Other non-fiction: MANAGEMENT OF MUNICIPAL FINANCE by Stone; APPLIED HYDRAULICS 2nd edition by Addison; DIRECT CURRENT MACHINERY, McFarland; ALTERNATING CURRENT CIRCUITS by Kerchner and Corcoran; WINDING ALTERNATING CURRENT MOTOR COILS by Van Brunt and Roe; TRANSFORMER ENGINEERING edited by Blume; WATER SUPPLY AND SEWERAGE, Steel; WATCH AND CLOCKMAKERS' HANDBOOK: DICTIONARY AND GUIDE 14th edition by Britten; HANDBOOK OF FOOD MANUFACTURE by Fiene and Blumenthal; PROCESSES AND MACHINERY IN THE PLASTICS INDUSTRY, Brandenburger; JEWELRY, GEM CUTTING, AND METALCRAFT, Baxter; TRAMPLING HERD: STORY OF THE CATTLE RANGE IN AMERICA, Wellman.

RUNS AGAIN

BUCYRUS — County Recorder Warren F. Keller today announced that he would be a candidate for re-election subject to the Democratic primary, May 14.

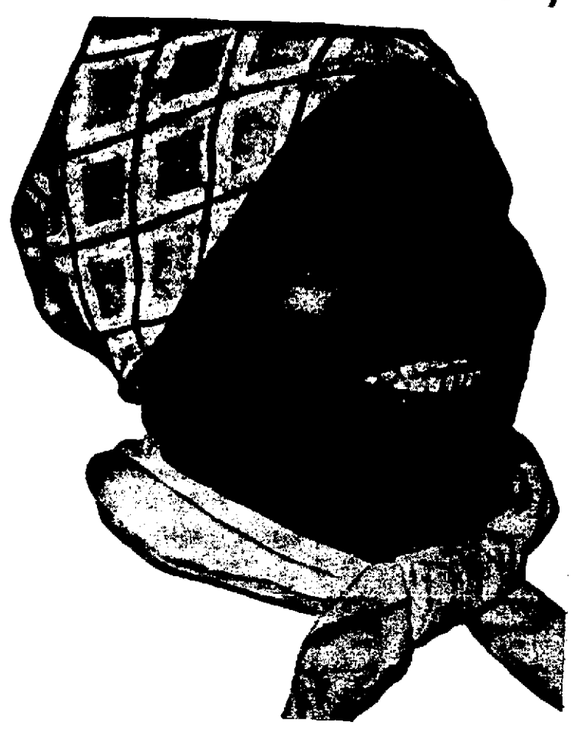
Keller served his first term of two years and is now completing his second term of four years.

William H. Songer of Sulphur Springs will oppose Keller for the Democratic nomination. R. B. Law of Lykens is a candidate for the Republican nomination.

YODELING GOES TO COURT

PASADENA, Cal. —(U.P.)— Some court judge in Pasadena is going to be obliged to listen to a lot of yodeling. Raynard Fraunfelder, Swiss yodeler of this city has brought a $50,000 damage suit against Universal Productions charging that in the film "Mad About Music" they used his yodeling songs without compensation. The court will have the opportunity to hear Fraunfelder yodel and then compare it with the sound records.

Pancake 'Trademark' In City



Aunt Jemima, whose broad smile and white teeth are familiar to millions, will make a personal appearance in Mansfield Saturday. She will be at the Third Street market all day to bake pancakes for customers to sample. Her appearance in the city will be sponsored by the Mercer market and the Quaker Oats company, which makes Aunt Jemima pancake flour, the product she advertises.

Nearly 200 alphabets are known, of which about 50 are in general use.

The Amazon river is navigable for large steam vessels 2,500 miles from the sea.

YOUNG BABIES "POSE"

FORT WORTH, Tex.—(U.P.)— Harry Stiefel, X-ray operator at Methodist hospital, makes standard photographs of newly born babies in his spare time. "Every baby has a different personality," Stiefel said, "and some of the girls, no more than two or three days old, actually pose for the camera."

PROVED IN USE . . .

"I Like My Electric Range Because . . .

Electric Cooking Is So CLEAN"

Says Mrs. H. R. Roberts

Right you are, Mrs. Roberts! Electric cooking is simple. It is simple because science has designed new, easy-to-heat units that keep temperatures even for hours. There's no burning or uneven browning. You don't even have to baste roasts. Cooking electrically is as simple as snapping on your lights.

"If I had to select any one thing about my new electric range that I liked best, it would be its cleanliness. You'd be surprised how much cleaner my kitchen is since I use electricity. Curtains and drapes, too, don't require washing so often. I was surprised, too, how fast electricity is."

And It Costs Mrs. Roberts Only $2.02 a Month to Cook

For 7 months this electric range was tested in the home of Mrs. Roberts at 60 Poplar St., Mansfield, to determine just what electric cookery costs. Mrs. Roberts herself kept the records because she wanted to know just how conomical electric cookery in the home is. She found, even though she made no extraordinary effort to economize, that she could cook for her family of four on an average monthly expenditure of only $2.02. Come in. We'll be glad to show you proof electric cooking is cheap.

SEE THE NEW 1940 O.P.S. SPECIAL WESTINGHOUSE ELECTRIC RANGE

Westinghouse has made to our specifications, an entirely new range—a range that has all the latest features and improvements Westinghouse engineers have developed through years of research. Yet O. P. S. brings it to you at a price you can afford. Now is the time to change over to the CLEAN, MODERN, QUICK and ECONOMICAL electric way to cook.

$4.65 Down

And $3.50 Per Month

Aunt Jemima Says . . .

Electric Cooking Is Tops With Me, Too!

I use electricity to cook my world famous pancakes and buckwheat cakes because it is sure, safe and convenient. I can have exactly the right heat at all times and get perfect results every time.

SEEKS TO SHIFT VILLAGE FUNDS

Shiloh Officials Move to Pay Hydrant Rental.

In an action filed in common pleas court, the village of Shiloh today sought authority to transfer $312 from its electric light fund to the general fund to pay hydrant rental.

Filed by Mayor George W. Page and Clerk H. B. Miller, the petition states that there is $1,500 in the light fund which will not be needed and that transfer of the money will not handicap the village government in its operation.
